

NEW RIVER PROPOSAL DRAFTED

Hoover Receives West's Backing SIX STATES LEANTOWARD CALIFORNIAN COAST GUARD IS INSTRUCTED TO CONTINUE SEARCH FOR REDFERN

THOSE of us who are old enough to remember the excitement in America over the Dreyfus case can appreciate the agitation in Europe over the Sacco-Vanzetti case. We in America knew little and cared nothing about Dreyfus personally. He was convicted of treason to France, and assigned such punishment as French law prescribed for the crime. So far, it was none of our business. But it was charged that Dreyfus, an innocent man, was being "railroaded" to his punishment by a clique of army officers, not for the treason of which he was accused, but because they wanted to get rid of him as a Jew. Instantly, not Dreyfus, but the French government became the defendant, and American public opinion was a part of the jury of the world.

IT HAPPENED that in this case the French government really was the guilty one. Dreyfus was innocent, and had been convicted by a conspiracy of suppression and falsification of evidence. A false sense of loyalty to the army was protecting the conspirators and keeping the victim in his unjust imprisonment in Devil's Island. Zola, in his famous "J'accuse" public letter, finally aroused public opinion even in France. Dreyfus was vindicated and restored to honor, and the French government cleared its record. American public opinion, on a matter which technically was not our concern, was one of the forces which brought this about.

THE American case is probably not analogous. Governor Fuller's commission, composed of the three of the best and fairest men in America, was convinced that Sacco and Vanzetti were guilty of the murder of which they were convicted, and that any indiscretions of the judge in private conversation had not affected the justice of the trial. Certainly the seven-year delay by the government to discover the truth, and American public opinion, conservative as well as radical, had unmistakably condemned any thought of convicting men on one accusation by reason of prejudice against them on another. American public opinion certainly, and American justice probably was right in this case.

BUT the superficial analogy to the Dreyfus case at least precludes us from resenting too much the interest shown abroad in this strictly American trial. If American courts had been guilty, as is generally represented in the propaganda abroad, of convicting men of a murder which they did not commit, in order to get rid of them as anarchists, the analogy would have been perfect. And, as we interested ourselves then, we cannot complain if others interest themselves now.

A FIVE-line dispatch announces the death in Cairo of Zaghoul Pasha, Egyptian Nationalist leader and president of the Egyptian Chamber of Deputies. Probably even five lines more than exhausted the interest of most American readers. And yet Zaghoul filled a place in Egypt almost as important as that of Gandhi in India, and more so than that of De Valera in Ireland. He had been the leader of the independence movement in India when to agitate for independence was rebellion. Twice banished and imprisoned in exile, he had returned after the accession of King Faisal to be the first Nationalist Premier of Egypt. His position was almost as Sinn Fein as that of De Valera in Ireland. He insisted on treating Egypt as already in possession of that complete and unconditional sovereignty which it had not yet won and England had not yet granted. The British were driven to deal with the more facile king, to intimidate him into dissolving Zaghoul's parliament, or to appoint ministers who did not represent the majority of that parliament and did not have its confidence. Zaghoul had the people with him, but the British army had the power, and British diplomacy dealt the king. Now Zaghoul is dead and Egyptian independence has no comparable leader. It is a really historic event, in the most ancient of historic countries. But to us, it is worth five lines.

A BOOK collector has turned up a new letter of Abraham Lincoln, in which Lincoln apologized to General Franz Sigel for a sharp note he had written him before. "General Sigel thinks I was a little cross in my late note to you," he said. "If I was, I ask your pardon. If I do get up a little temper, I have not sufficient time to keep it." Like so many other fragmentary bits, this is quite worthy of Lincoln—human, laconic, generous, and modest. And the suggestion that a busy man, with great responsibilities, has no time to cherish resentments and irritations, is worth preserving as a motto, for all people, at all times.

HOPE IS NOT GIVEN UP BY EXECUTIVES

Squabble Over Power Will Be Given Blame If Conference Proves Failure
ANOTHER MEET LIKELY
Concessions Are Made by California, Arizona But Both Maintain Positions

(By United Press)
DENVER, Aug. 30.—Tired and just a bit discouraged from more than a week of heated controversy, delegates to the seven-state Colorado river conference today attempted for what possibly was the last time to bring about an agreement between Arizona and California.

The conference opened in Denver a week ago yesterday. There were high hopes that the Santa Fe compact of 1922, appropriating water from the Colorado river equitably to the seven states through which it and its tributaries pass, would be adopted. Little, it seemed, remained to be done. The upper basin states had agreed to accept the compact. Nevada's demands were easily met. Only the dispute between Arizona and California was to be settled. Although the conditions which both states requested were highly technical, and considerably involved, the whole thing resolved upon the insistence by California that she get two-thirds of the water allotted the lower basin after Nevada should be taken care of. Arizona was equally steadfast in her demands that she get one-half of the water.

Situation Is Unchanged
And there, practically, the situation stands today, after seven days of conference, resolutions and much squabbling about among the governors of the seven states and the water experts they brought to Denver with them.

Both California and Arizona made "concessions" in which they yielded down their demands slightly, but still they remained adamant. Then the governor of the upper basin states drew up a special proposal, which they believed would be acceptable to the lower states. It was rejected. So was a second proposal. Last night the governors met again—not in despair, they said—to draft a third and probably final proposal. It allots 300,000 acre feet of water to Nevada, 3,000,000 to Arizona and 4,200,000 to California, with an additional 1,000,000 acre feet to Arizona from her tributaries.

Whether it will be accepted remains a matter of conjecture. Hints of politics, despair of previous water conferences and the power question, likewise a seemingly insurmountable obstacle, have crept into the deliberations. If the conference fails and there were many who declared it would, the power squabble must take the blame, observers said.

Questions Closely Allied
Senator Key Pittman, Nevada, said in an address that the power and water questions are so closely allied that settlement of one cannot occur without settlement of the other. "Arizona," he declared, "would agree to settle the water question with an understanding there be no disposal of power created without an agreement between the states. It is a question of state rights or federalism."

The All-American canal, still another bone of contention, also loomed in the offering as an obstacle to immediate settlement. It was reported that California would demand formally 4,600,000 acre feet of water from the river, on the contention that the canal cannot operate without at least that much water.

It was generally believed, however, that settlement based upon the Santa Fe compact is assured, if not at this conference, then at another, which will be called in Salt Lake City at some future date if this one fails.

Compact Signed In 1922
The Santa Fe compact, so named because it was signed in Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 25, 1922, was drawn up to afford:

Equitable division of water from the Colorado river system; to establish relative importance of different beneficial uses of water; to promote interstate comity and to remove causes of present and future controversies.

The pact divides the Colorado river basin into two parts, the upper belonging to Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming, and the lower to California, Arizona and Nevada. Seven million five hundred thousand acre feet of water per year are allotted to each section.

In addition, the three lower basin states are given the right to increase use of such water 1,000,000 acre feet yearly.

Surplus of the two divisions.

CHICAGO MOVIE HOUSES FORCED TO SHUT DOORS

Demand of Motion Picture Operators Bring Closing Action
(By United Press)
CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Places of amusement where moving pictures were not a part of the program enjoyed unequalled prosperity last night and it appeared today it was only the beginning of a series of movieless nights due to lockout of picture machine operators.

The lockout was declared by the Chicago Exhibitors' association when the Motion Picture Operators' union declared a strike on all houses in the vaudeville circuit. Notices were posted on theater doors which read:

"This theater has been forced to close by the arbitrary demands of the Motion Picture Operators' union."

Association officials claimed the lockout affected 350 to 400 theaters—all of the picture houses in Chicago and suburbs with exception of a few small theaters not allied with the association.

L. A. MUSICIANS TO DISCUSS NEW TERMS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—A meeting of the local musicians' union is scheduled here tonight to discuss terms offered by theater managers as a possible means of averting a strike that threatens to darken Los Angeles' amusement risio.

The projected strike, scheduled for Thursday, is led by the musicians, who are supported by motion picture operators and stage hands.

The wage increase sought by the musicians is an increase of 10 per cent with one day off per week. Stage hands and operators ask a $10 weekly salary raise.

PROTECTION NOT GIVEN AMERICANS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The state department today instructed the American embassy in Mexico City to renew its representations to the Mexican government for protection of 18 Americans reported endangered by armed radicals at the American Ampharos mines near Etzelan.

(The department's action was based on a report from the American consul at Guadalajara quoting a telegram from the mines, dated yesterday, saying no troops had arrived.)

Mexican Troops Hunting Bandits

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Three hundred Mexican troops have joined in the pursuit of bandits in the vicinity of Acapulco, where Miss Florence Anderson, Los Angeles school teacher, was killed last week during a bandit raid on a Southern Pacific train, state department reports said today.

The chief of military operations of the state of Nayarit personally directed the troops, Vice Consul Ives reported from Mazatlan.

Navy Is Unable To Participate In Ocean Hunt

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—With the Coast Guard rendering such search assistance as "seems practicable," the navy department is abstaining from the hunt for Paul Redfern, missing Brunswick-Rio de Janeiro flyer, because it has no vessels available and wouldn't know where to look if it had.

"The navy is ready to help in whatever way it can, but no one has any idea where Redfern may be," said acting Secretary of the Navy Warner today, in commenting on the request from Redfern's home town for a search.

Coast Guard headquarters, meanwhile, instructed P. W. Lauriat, head of the Florida east coast patrol area, to get in touch with backwaters of the flight and assist in the hunt for Redfern if such is thought feasible. Lauriat has 15 boats in his command.

Commander Lauriat was ordered to take personal charge of the search for Redfern. Adm. F. C. Billard, commandant of the guard, instructed Lauriat to take the cutter Yamacraw and patrol the sea from Brunswick, Ga., to Porto Rico.

Lauriat was instructed to confer with Paul J. Vane, Redfern's manager, who wired Billard that he believed Redfern had landed somewhere between Brunswick and the Bahamas.

The guard's small boats searching between Florida and the Bahamas now number 20.

WILL TRACE RUMORS OF SIGHTING OF PLANE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The state department today instructed its consuls at Caracas, Venezuela; Georgetown, British Guiana; Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana and Para, Brazil, to ask local authorities to trace rumors of the appearance of the missing American aviator, Paul Redfern, over the Orinoco delta.

The instructions were sent after Redfern's wife and his backer in Brunswick, Ga., had requested investigation of the rumors.

AROUND WORLD PLANE REACHES BELGRADE

BELGRADE, Aug. 30.—The around-the-world monoplane, "Pride of Detroit," enroute from Munich to Constantinople, alighted here at 11:55 a. m. local time.

The plane alighted at Bechaniya airfield immediately after a cloudburst, which had driven waiting crowds to shelter.

Only government and airline officials and the U. S. consul were able to greet the flyers as they climbed out. There was not a trace of fatigue about either William S. Brock or Edward P. Schlee.

Brock and Schlee shook hands all around and Brock discussed their flight from Munich with the United Press. He said they had no difficulty in following the Danube despite the partially foggy and rainy weather.

"If the rest of it is as easy as this," said Brock, "we are certain to beat the record."

"The 'Pride of Detroit' is an excellent plane," interposed Schlee, "and more faithful than a woman."

New 'Plot' Stirs Beverly Clara Sleeps Peacefully

(By United Press)
BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Aug. 30.—Beverly Hills, famed city of dark intrigue, had a brand new "plot" on its hands today.

While police were unable to determine its nature, investigators declared that Clara Bow, titian-haired screen star, was the object of the "plots."

Chief among the investigators was Police Chief Blair, of Beverly Hills, who recently figured in an investigation into a suspected "kidnaping plot" against Mary Pickford.

According to the actress, a youth who said he was from Brooklyn, was discovered loitering about the lawn of the Bow home. She befriended him and her father supplied the youth with money to buy

ENGLISH WAR AGE CHOSEN TO PILOT LEVINE'S PLANE

'Columbia' May Hop Off Tomorrow on Homeward Ocean Flight
(By United Press)
CROYDON AIRPORT, Eng., Aug. 30.—Charles A. Levine's Belanca monoplane "Columbia" left here today for Cranwell, whence the start on the proposed return flight across the Atlantic is to be made.

Capt. Walter R. C. Hinchcliffe, English pilot and war ace, appointed by Levine, and the plane's owner, were in the craft which left at 4:40 p. m. C. anwell field is in Lincolnshire.

Levine said he had arranged to have the "Columbia" equipped with a radio set and a British compass.

"I flew from Paris without a compass," he said, "and steered by confidence. Nine-tenths of flying merely is having confidence in yourself."

"I have been planning this transatlantic flight for several months. I announced before I left New York that the 'Columbia' would make a round trip and I am determined to make it."

Explaining his unexpected departure from Le Bourget field yesterday, Levine said:

"While in France every possible obstacle was put in the way of the proposed flight. Whether it was because the French resented our going to Germany first, I do not know, but everything I did in France was subject to constant criticism, in the newspapers and elsewhere. Frequently I was misrepresented."

"Finally, I could see no other way out except to bring the airplane to England and start from here."

Weather permitting, Levine said, he and Hinchcliffe will start soon to New York from Cranwell flying field.

Cranwell was chosen for the start because it would provide more room for the "Columbia" to take off.

"My attorney in Paris," Levine said, "has paid Maurice Drouhin 100,000 francs and therefore that affair is liquidated."

Drouhin was the French pilot engaged by Levine to pilot the "Columbia." Constant controversy between them caused a break in their relations.

Levine and Hinchcliffe may start tomorrow for Long Island, Levine told newspapermen today.

He added, however, that the date still was indefinite.

Levine said he would attempt

Cecil Scores Navy Policy Of England

(By United Press)
LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Baldwin government's disarmament policy was brought to the nation's attention today through Viscount Robert Cecil's letter to Prime Minister Baldwin, stating his reasons for resigning from the cabinet.

The letter from one of Britain's foremost statesmen and one of the founders of the League of Nations was an indictment of the government's entire disarmament policy, including its position during the recent three-power naval conference at Geneva, which failed because of the refusal of the British delegation to reduce its tonnage to a figure acceptable to the United States and Japan.

Cecil, who was a member of the British delegation, said he was out of sympathy with instructions from the government during the Geneva conference and he said it was his opinion that an agreement might have been reached at Geneva without sacrificing British interests if only the government had taken a different attitude.

Attendees at the Bow home today denied that the house was being guarded and police at the Beverly Hills police station denied any knowledge of the affair, stating that Chief Blair was out.

Miss Bow was sleeping peacefully at a late hour this morning, it was reported at her home, despite the vile "kidnaping plot."

YOUNG IS WELL PLEASED WITH CABINET MEET

Discussion of State Problems Gives Governor Inspiration
(By United Press)
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30.—With Governor Young's newly-created state council functioning for the first time following its official meeting yesterday, the nine heads of state departments comprising the "cabinet" today laid plans for the next meeting, scheduled for September 23.

The council concluded its first meeting last night after hearing reports from the nine department chiefs. Following the session the group was taken on a tour of the new capitol annex buildings and last night attended a theater party.

"The first meeting was successful in every detail," Governor Young commented today. "If every director gained as much inspiration from the round table discussion of state affairs as I did, I am sure we all benefited greatly."

Adoption Laws Explained
At the afternoon session of the council, Mrs. Anna L. Saylor, of Berkeley, head of the department of social welfare, told of the new state laws governing child adoption. William John Cooper, director of education, announced that plans had definitely been made to rebuild Chico State Teachers' college at its old site and that new buildings would be started at once with funds on hand.

At the suggestion of Fred Stevernot, director of natural resources in the state would be instructed to arrest all motorists who throw lighted cigars or cigarettes from their automobiles on state highways, regardless if fires were started or not.

John A. McGilvray, director of the department of industrial relations, emphasized the need of county co-operation in law enforcement, while George H. Hecke, director of agriculture, stressed the value of field crops as well as fruit standardization in California.

Dairy Control Head Resigns
Hecke also announced that Dr. J. J. Frey, chief of the state bureau of dairy control, had resigned to accept a position with a creamery in San Francisco.

B. B. Meek, of Oroville, director of public works, declared the great need of the state for long time planning, particularly for highways and bridges. Width of roads and needs of traffic for 25 or 50 years ahead should be considered in making plans today, he said.

Airman Guilty Of Flying Too Low

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—A navy courtmartial today found Thomas Williamson, navy aviator, guilty on two counts for flying low over a congested section of the capital, but held him innocent of four other counts arising from the same flight.

There was a hint in the trial that Williamson's "stunting" was part of a greeting to a friend in a city department.

The counts on which he was convicted involved minor infractions of the navy's regulations, but no violation of commerce department flying rules. The case now goes to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur for review and for punishment, if any.

DESPONDENCY CAUSES MAN TO KILL SELF

Raymond Morgensen, 27, ranch employe, committed suicide, at 1 o'clock this afternoon by shooting himself through the head with a 25-35 Winchester rifle, at his mother's home at 922 Highland street.

Police, who were called to the house, found the body of the man lying on the floor beside an open trunk. In the trunk was a mackinaw coat saturated with blood, which caused them to believe, they said, that Morgensen had stuck his head in the trunk when he fired the fatal shot.

The gun had been kept in the trunk, it was said, and Morgensen used it while it was partly dismantled. There was no stock on the rifle when it was found by officers.

The bullet entered Morgensen's forehead and penetrated the skull. Death was probably instantaneous.

That Morgensen had been despondent over ill health for some time, was a reason given by his mother, Mrs. Johanna Morgensen. He came to Santa Ana several days ago from Arcadia where he had been employed on a ranch, she said. The man's sister, Miss Nettie Morgensen, a Los Angeles school teacher, also was in the house at the time.

The family was eating lunch, when Morgensen arose from the table and went into another room. In a few minutes a shot was heard. He made no comment when he left the table, it was said.

Coroner Charles D. Brown took charge of the body, and it was removed to the Winbigger Mission Funeral home, where an inquest will be held.

Paul Knapp Gets Two Life Terms

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—The colorful criminal career of Paul E. Knapp, former Seattle policeman, came to a conclusion here today when he was sentenced to Folsom prison for a term carrying a maximum of two life sentences and a minimum of 16 years.

Knapp was sentenced on two counts of robbery, one of criminal assault and of escape from the custody of police officers. Ten other counts against Knapp, to which he pleaded not guilty, including robbery, assault, burglary and attempted murder, were dismissed.

Knapp's capture several months ago took a sensational turn when he escaped from Deputy sheriffs by slipping through a trap door in the ceiling of his mother-in-law's home. He was recaptured within a week and his wife and J. F. Bisbee, a bail bond broker, are now awaiting trial on charges of contributing to the escape.

Y. M. C. A. BOOL MOST POPULAR THIS SUMMER

With the close of the month, all records for summer season attendance at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. swimming pool will be broken. It was announced today at the association offices.

Figures compiled by R. R. Russick, physical director, show that the average daily use of the pool during July and August has gone considerably above 100, whereas in the past, the average ran about 90. On many days, the total use of the pool has gone above 200.

This increase, according to Russick, results in part from the growing appreciation in the city of the splendid opportunity offered by the Y pool, and the increasing number of swimmers who are constantly being taught there, while another part of the increase is represented by the generous extension of the use of the pool for the benefit of the community.

The children of the public playgrounds have had free swimming periods in the pool each week, and a total of 556 swims by these boys and girls has been recorded. In July, the children of the Daily Vacation Bible Schools had swimming periods, some seven hundred swims being provided for them. Other groups, from Costa Mesa, Garden Grove, and other nearby points, as well as special local groups, have enjoyed the privilege of using the pool as guests.

But the members of the Y have been faithful in their devotion to aquatic sports this summer, says Russick, and as a result, many of them are in better shape than ever for the fall grind of work.

Reports from other departments of the Y. M. C. A. work indicate that the summer has been exceptionally busy in all lines. Secretary Smedley states that activities such as the toastmasters' club and the men's chorus, which usually take the summer off, have not missed a meeting, but have kept their work up to a high pitch of enthusiasm through the summer months, while the general use of the building has been large.

T. P. McKee, of the boys' department, reports that his section of the building has been busier and noisier than ever before, and that the attendance, both at the building and at the camp, has established records. With this background, the whole Y. M. C. A. staff is preparing for bigger business than ever with the opening of the fall program in September.

Lita Grey Chaplin Named Guardian

Appointment of guardian was made yesterday after decision by Superior Judge Guerin not to revoke his original divorce decree that he might issue a new one to include receiver's fees. This makes possible a final decree August 23, 1928.

Police Investigate Story Of Shooting

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 30.—Roman Morales, 42, assistant Southern Pacific shop foreman, was in the railroad hospital today with a bullet wound in his side, while police were investigating his story of being shot down by two thugs in an alley near his home last night.

Jesus Jimenez, an alleged enemy of the wounded man, is to be questioned by police as to his movements last night.

Jimenez recently received a 30-day suspended jail sentence for disturbing the peace, with Morales the complaining witness.

Court Notes

Four Defendants

Frank R. Jones names four defendants, said to be prominent in the management of the Golden West Fur Farms, in a suit for $2000 and interest, filed today in the Superior court. Alleging that he secured from Margaret J. Leach, the promissory note of the fur company, which had been given to her in return for a $2000 loan, Jones asserts that the defendants had failed to pay the loan and declared each of them liable for one-fourth of the principal and interest. Marcellus Meek, E. T. Griffith, O. M. Hill and George U. Carter are named as the defendants.

Asks Foreclosure

Starting proceedings for the foreclosure of a mortgage said to have been given on ranch property as security for an $8000 loan, Maude Wells, in a complaint filed at the Superior court today, asks that a receiver be appointed to handle the property during the litigation. John E. Shub, Joseph and Marie Zeller are named as the holders of the property, the plaintiff asserting that she has been forced to pay for insurance and labor on the land because of the asserted failure of the defendants to keep the property in condition.

The resignation of Jasper N. Osborn, for the past three and a half years office secretary of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., and the appointment of F. R. LITTLE CHILD IS KILLED BY BREAD TRUCK

Death claimed its third street accident victim in as many weeks at Newport Beach today, when Mary Loraine Eckardt, 18-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Eckardt, owners of a service station at Fifteenth street and Central avenue, was run over by a bread truck driven by Nathan E. Tevens, of Santa Ana.

The baby was playing in front of the big machine when the driver, unaware that the little girl was in front, started down Central avenue. Broken and bruised, the body of the little girl was taken to the Newport Beach hospital, where an inquest was held shortly after the accident.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death, testimony showing that Tevens had no knowledge that the baby was playing in front of his machine.

The two other accident victims in the past two weeks were Wallace Adams, of Los Angeles, and Edward Doris, of Riverside, both children. Chief of Police Winn pointed out today that the death were in each instance caused by the carelessness of the children or their parents and not because of speeding. Officers of the Newport Beach department are particularly watchful for reckless drivers and speeders, he said.

RINGLING BROS. CIRCUS COMES HERE SEPT. 14

It's coming, youngsters! Pawah, the sacred white elephant 'n' ever' thing.

Meaning that the combined Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus is definitely scheduled to exhibit in Santa Ana both afternoon and night on Wednesday, Sept. 14.

In consequence a brilliant, and to the younger generation, at least, awe-inspiring multitude of gaily-colored posters will bedeck countless billboards, walls and empty shop windows today. Three score of billposters, lithographers and banner men will effect the metamorphosis and to watch the feats of these agile circus men is almost as wonderful as witnessing the lofty deeds of daring which the posters they place foretell. The crew is under the direction of Col. George Goodhart who piloted them to town this morning aboard an 80-foot steel Pullman. This is the harbinger among the publicity cars that may be expected to visit here prior to the advent of the colossus itself.

The advance press representative states that this season's edition of the big show is the last word in monumental entertainment. Pawah, sacred white elephant of Burma and characterized as the only genuine one of his kind ever brought to America, is among the distinguished features. He will be exhibited in the combined menagerie of more than a thousand animals. The present is to be his only tour as he must be returned to his native land at the end of the show season.

Acts of stupendous size and scope predominate in the 700-foot long main tent that will house the Greatest Show on Earth when it exhibits here. Of the 43 elephants of common breed and color, 32 will be seen performing in unison on the ascending levels of a gigantic pedestal. On this they drill or dance while the topmost pachyderm execute the latest "black bottom" steps at the pinnacle of the pedestal, 20 feet above the ground. Prior to this formation the big fellows are seen in five herds doing stunts in as many separate rings.

On still another pedestal structure a unique group of 80 zebras, camels, stallions and Shetland ponies perform at one time. This strangely mixed company run, march and drill clockwise and counter-clockwise on a succession of elevations. Of the show's nine hundred horses, almost half are trained. These include five troupes of liberty horses. Two hundred others appear at one time in hippodrome track maneuvers, each ridden by an expert in brilliant costume. Of the show's human personnel of 1600 people, more than 800 number the world's foremost acrobats, bareback equestrians, high-wire artists, ground and lofty gymnasts and internationally famed athletes. These are presented in almost solid formation in keeping with the new plan of distributing an equal number of features over the entire length of the big-top. One hundred double-length hippodrome cars are used to transport the big new show of 1927. And juveniles will be delighted to learn that the arrival of 20 European clowns has increased the fun-makers to an even hundred.

Geologist Finds Tramp Not Silly

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Aug. 30.—"I have swunken and I am tired. Why will men swink and sweat away their lives under the torrid sun of a midsummer day?"

This burst of rhapsody and archaic verbs filtered through the bushes near an oil lease, and C. G. Starling, geologist, investigated. A tramp, reclining on the ground, looked up innocently and said "Yes, I am tired swinking through life." Starling hit for home and found a dictionary. He looked up "swink" and decided the tramp wasn't as "goofy" as he sounded.

Volcano Is Not Place For Sleep

GERBER, Calif., Aug. 30.—After sleeping all night at the edge of Mt. Lassen's crater, five Atlantic City musicians are ready to believe the volcano isn't extinct, after all.

After climbing the peak in five hours, the party pitched camp on frozen ground and went to sleep. Two hours later their beds got warm. Clouds of steam poured from the crevice in which they slept. When Lassen let out a deep rumble, it took just 20 minutes for the quintet to slide down the mountain to safer quarters.

Just send your name to Mrs. Jane Amundsen, California State fair grounds, Sacramento.

AGED MAN ATTEMPTS TO END HIS LIFE

Apparently demented, an aged man attempted to commit suicide at 2:30 a. m. today by lying down on the Santa Fe railroad tracks, near the Placentia boulevard.

The man was saved when the engineer stopped the train and the train crew took the man from the rails. The crew reported the incident to the sheriff's office and stated that the man had to be held until the train passed to keep him from jumping in front of the engine.

Sheriff's Officer Howard and Stewart were called to the scene later, but were unable to find the man.

GIRL ESCAPES INJURY WHEN HIT BY TRAIN

Ruth Osborne, 22, 413 1-2 East Amerige street, Fullerton, miraculously escaped death yesterday afternoon when the car she was driving was struck by a Santa Fe train, at the crossing on East Seventeenth street, after her machine had stalled on the tracks.

The automobile with its driver was carried 100 feet down the tracks by the engine and wrecked. Miss Osborne escaped with a broken left leg and minor cuts and bruises.

She was taken to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where her condition today was satisfactory, it was said. The train was a special freight, traveling south at the time of the accident. Engineer C. E. Telford, San Bernardino, was at the throttle of the engine and brought the train to a stop as soon as possible, expecting to find the woman dead. She was taken from the wrecked machine conscious.

Sid Smithwick, assistant police chief, made an investigation and reported the accident to police station.

STILL HUNT LOST BOOZE IN ROCKIES

ESTES PARK, Colo., Aug. 30.—A search for nearly half a century for buried treasure somewhere in the mountains here is still going on.

The treasure is a large quantity of Scotch whiskey imported by the Earl of Dunraven, English sportsman who once owned thousands of acres of land in what is now Estes park, 75 miles west of Denver.

It was in the late 70's that Dunraven built a lodge for the great numbers of guests he was accustomed to bring from England to enjoy the hunting on his Colorado estate. Large quantities of liquor were imported each year and cached near the lodge. It was buried during the winter and recovered when the snows left the mountains.

In 1879 an unusually large quantity was buried by servants, who were unable to find it the following spring. It is this store that old-timers still are "trying to discover."

Horsemanship Of Prince Of Wales Is Now Defended

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Prince of Wales, whose every fall from his saddle sends a ripple of chuckles across America, is really a dashing and competent horseman and the victim of international misunderstanding, says an article in the September Review of Reviews.

The point misunderstanding, explains the writer of an American expert in horsemanship, is that Americans do not understand the conditions of the British fox-hunt, in which half the riders are likely to take spills during a short run. The result is a flurry of undeserved jibes at a hard rider and good sportsman, he pointed out.

'Soul Of Violin' Proves Too Much

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—The "Soul of the Violin" is a pathetic story of an old French violinist who, dying in poverty, refuses to sell his valuable instrument to save himself and smashes it so no stranger may play it after his death.

Miss May Myria was reading the story over station WSYR the other night, while Howard Ackles played a violin obligato at her side. The emotional climax was too much for Miss Myria.

When she reached the part about the dying musician smashing his fiddle, she snatched the violin from Ackles and crashed it over her knee.

$5 GOLD PIECE LANDS 13 YEAR OLD IN JAIL

Had a 13-year-old boy, arrested yesterday, known as a $5 gold piece when he saw it, he might not be in the county detention home today charged with burglary.

Sid Smithwick, acting police chief, arrested the youth yesterday for burglarizing the home of Mrs. Sue Henry, 902 Baker street. Several days ago, at which time a bank containing about $50 in gold and silver, was taken.

When Smithwick learned that the boy had sold one of two gold pieces that were in the bank for 25 cents and the other for $1.60, the youth's arrest followed.

"I knew it was a kid job, so I thought he would go to the nearest grocery store to buy candy. I called at the nearest one and sure enough he had been there and had sold one of the clerk's $5 gold piece for 25 cents."

Smithwick giggled when he told that, but he laughed out loud when he added that the man who had bought the gold piece for 25 cents came down town first to find out if it was good.

SALE OF PURINTON PARK CONTEMPLATED

"Purinton Park" an acre and a quarter of ground owned by the city at the Santiago creek and Flower street, and named after Mayor Frank L. Purinton, is on the way of passing out of the park class and into the class of property utilized for serving chicken dinners. This was the indication at the council meeting last night, when it was revealed that Ralph Auck and H. Cedric Brown have made an offer of $3500 for the property, and that they contemplate the erection of an artistic restaurant building in which they will cater to the traveling public and specialize in the serving of chicken dinners.

Completion of the sale of the property last night was blocked by the fact that the property is restricted by the zoning ordinance to use only for residential purposes.

In order to get quick action, the council, at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, September 6, will hear protests against the proposed inclusion of this property in the "neighborhood business" zone.

First reading was given an ordinance regulating the excavation of gravel, sand and dirt within the city limits of Santa Ana, and final adoption will be made at a meeting of the council Tuesday evening of next week. The purpose of the ordinance is to close up a gravel pit on West Eighth street, an operation that was declared by Mayor Frank Purinton and C. W. Childers as detrimental to property in that vicinity.

Application of J. C. Tetler, of Huntington Beach, for permission to operate a taxicab service here, with a stand at 302 Spurgeon street, was referred to the city manager and city engineer.

The Robertson Electric company was granted permission to erect an electric sign for T. J. Neal, at 209 East Fourth, and a similar permit was granted the Cope Electric company for a sign for the Parsons drug store, at 302 West Fourth street.

Application of the Jackson Ice Cream company for a loading zone at 422 North Broadway was referred to the city manager.

The end of the crowing rooster in Santa Ana is approaching. The city council directed the city attorney to prepare an amendment to an ordinance governing the keeping of chickens in the city. When drawn the ordinance will prohibit the keeping of roosters within 125 feet of a residence.

The street superintendent was authorized to erect at the city yards a shed for machinery.

The city manager was authorized to complete the purchase from David Jones of a lot on Eastwood avenue for a fire station house. The purchase price is $2150. The city has sold to the Smart-Final company the East First street fire station property and a new station will be erected on Eastwood avenue.

All bids opened Monday night of last week for supplying the city with water meters and tires were rejected.

China Civil War Hairs Hair Trade

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Chinese revolution, combined with modern fashion, has caused a slump in China's hair trade. Little hair comes from China today. The Chinese exported many thousands of pounds worth of hair to Europe every year. Now the locks of Italy's beauties adorn the transformations of matrons. Fine naturally curly hair is the mode. About 20,000 cwt. of human hair are annually imported into England, most of which comes from Czechoslovakia, Italy, Norway and Sweden. The average price of an ounce of naturally curly hair is from $2 to $6. Some women pay as much as $600 for a transformation, which resembles a natural head of hair in color and texture. To obtain this effect, a rare hair from Sweden is used. In color it is ash blond, rose tinted, and it may cost anything from $50 an ounce.

UNWED OFFICIALS GET WAGE SLASH

TEHEREN, Aug. 30.—Government officials must marry or pay taxes, an act just passed by the Persian Majlis lays down, authorizing a reduction of 10 per cent in the salaries of all unmarried government officials.

The public health department is to receive the price of single blessedness, which is to a'm at an increase in the population and a decrease in the social diseases. Doubting Thomases say the majority of the officials would rather pay than marry if only because the upkeep of a family would amount to more than the new tax.

At 115, She Still Smokes And Chews

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Aug. 30.—Nancy Blackskirt Miller has smoked and chewed tobacco ever since she can remember, which is quite some time, since Nancy was born in 1812.

And the 115-year-old Seneca Indian woman says she'll go right on living so long as she can sell her baskets and buy fuel to keep the old pipe burning.

Nancy comes from a line of long-lived Indians. Her mother claimed to be 150 and she has a sister who is 100.

Nancy herself never was ill a day in her life, but quite often she has to nurse her 67-year-old daughter Carrie.

The old squaw does all the housework, goes to the reservation store for supplies, and weaves baskets in her spare time, if any.

Happily Renewed at Bridge Tea

Decorative appointments in which pink and green were blended in artistic effect, distinguished a thoroughly enjoyable bridge tea at which Miss Grace Robertson entertained Saturday afternoon in her home at 1317 North Main street, as an end of summer vacation party.

It proved to be a happy reunion of Santa Ana high school and Pomona college friends, and the session of bridge was enlivened by snatches of lively reminiscence of school experiences which had been shared.

Miss Robertson had chosen dainty gifts for card rewards, and of these, a boudoir pillow was presented Mrs. Sheldon Russell, holder of high score; an embroidered guest towel to Mrs. Lynn Crawford, second, and a pretty handkerchief to Miss Cassius Paul, scoring low.

At the tea hour, the frilled asters and dahlias with fern fronds of the floral background, found their colors repeated in appointments of the card tables, as Miss Robertson, with the assistance of her mother and sister, Mrs. Mary Robertson and Miss Mabel Robertson, spread them with immaculate linens and set tall pink or green tapers to place in the center of each. At the tables where tapers were pink, the crystal service plates gleamed rosy on the white linen, and the green candles found their cool tones deepened in the plates' frosted greens.

The nut-dipped ice cream roll was of pistachio and raspberry, and dainty cakes were iced in pink and green. Mints in the same tones, with coffee completing the menu of refreshing dainties.

Friendships so delightfully renewed were those of Miss Frances Kinney, Mrs. Chester Stafford, (Edith Knox), Mrs. Sheldon Russell (Marie McNaught), and Miss Helen Randall, all now of Los Angeles; Mrs. Robert Garrison of Long Beach; Miss Mildred Pitt of Monrovia; Miss Nancy Marshall, now of San Diego; Miss Katherine Maple of Whittier; Miss Marian Stone and Mrs. Rudolph Richards (Helen Tantlinger) now of Pomona; Mrs. Barrows Hartwell of Ventura; Miss Lillian Humphrey, Mrs. Lynn Crawford (Adele Johnston), Miss Tessie Childers, Miss Bertha Selway, Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mrs. Orlyn Robertson, Mrs. Richard Raitt (Alice Marshall), and Miss Jess Goodwin, Santa Ana, together with Miss Robertson and her mother and sister.

Household Hints

HOT VINEGAR
Dip a rag in hot vinegar and wipe off your gas stove if you like to have it immaculate and spotless.

DINGY OVERSHOES
Dingy overshoes can be made more presentable if wiped off with a cloth wrung out of warm ammonia water.

MAPLE FLAVOR
To make the flavor of beverages more interesting, every now and then try sweetening them with maple syrup instead of sugar.

"DIFFERENT" COCKTAIL
Californians make a delicious fruit cocktail for beginning a meal by using grapefruit and cherries, with strained honey on top.

SOILED SPOTS
To insure perfect cleanliness in clothes, always scrub soiled spots, such as cuffs and collars with a small brush and suds before laundering.

PRESERVED GINGER
Use preserved ginger, cut in small chunks, when making ginger bread and ginger waffles as it gives a richness powdered ginger cannot.

COLD DRINK
A delicious cold drink is made by using apple cider and loganberry juice in equal parts.

TIGHTEN SCREWS
To tighten screws that keep working loose, remove, dip the tip in glue and replace immediately. They will not work out again.

AUTUMN HOUSE-CLEANING
If you neglected to have all your comfortables and blankets cleaned thoroughly when you stored them, have them done now before winter starts.

QUICK BISCUITS
By thinning regular biscuit dough until it can be dropped from the spoon you can have hot biscuits with very little effort.

ICE-BOX PIE
When making pies, make enough paste for an extra one. Put the extra paste in a glass jar and keep on ice for an emergency.

PREVENT DRIPPING
To prevent cream from dripping from the spout of a pitcher, rub a little butter on the outer edge of the spout. It will not show.

FLUFFY MAYONNAISE
If you are careful to add your acid before you oil when making mayonnaise, there is little chance of its curdling.

BAKED APPLES
If you will prick the skins of apples or plums with a fork when baking, they will not burst.

MUSH DISKS
Pack left-over cereal in jelly glasses and let cool. When sliced it makes attractive disks with no corners to break off.

PAJAMAS LEAP TO FAVOR FOR FORMAL WEAR AMONG WOMEN OF EUROPEAN STYLE CENTERS

BY JULIA BLANCHARD
NEA Service Writer

Just where is the pajama suit leading women's modes?

Does its unanimous selection as the proper smart apparel for morning, afternoon and evening wear at smart resorts this summer mean that women's skirts will turn to trousers before we have realized the transition?

Suffice it to say that the pajama suit will bear watching! Quite independent of tradition, it stepped from the boudoir to the beach this summer and became socially speaking, "made." The result was electric! Fashion forecasts that the pajama suit is about to double on its tracks and again enter the house. This time it will be triumphantly through the drawing room, not the boudoir!

Pajamas With Trains!

Predictions from abroad now are that before the winter is over, the very latest "latest" will be stunning evening attire that will be, to say the least, "pajama-ish." Stunning little trains will they have, of the new transparent velvet or gold or silver lace, trailing their grace from the back widths of decollete sleeveless pajama coats.

Fair fashionables on the Lido this season are most responsible for the pajama craze. Pajama suits are by all odds the most popular apparel for day-time wear. Women wear them for walking, driving, shopping, while sipping their drinks on the beach and dancing at tea-time.

Such pajamas as they are, though! Ravishly lovely and most interesting. For, while establishing itself socially, the pajama suit had no conscience in the matter of openly borrowing ideas for cut from the whole realm of both men and women's modes.

Some pajama suits on the Lido show the influence of the jockey suit, the tuxedo, polo and other sports attire, while others are ultra-feminine with lacy loveliness and trailing sleeves.

The daytime pajama suits are the most important ones on the Lido. These are apt to have regulation sports blouses, jumpers or cardigans, worn.

The other day-time suits differ in cut and materials. One dots its way to chic, in two shades of blue, a navy and a gaudy shade. A sleeveless jumper of the bright blue is topped by a bright blue coat with figured banding. The coat is the new three-quarters length.

Most modest is the gorgeous cream and orchid satin suit with its long coat, flaring long sleeves and trousers and its modish collar ending in long ties that can be thrown over the shoulder.

Newer in their usage are the other two suits, both worn on the Lido for tea and dancing. The little Oriental chooses soft broadcloth georgette in gold and almost a cerise for her sleeveless, circularly cut jumper, while her cerise pajama trousers have gold appliques on them.

Trousers Take Jodhpur Cut
Newest of the new is the other semi-formal Nile green satin and georgette suit. These trousers are the snappy jodhpur cut, held under the broadest slippers with a cute little green strap. The waistline shows the Spanish influence, with a tight, wide belt-line and fringed sash. The sleeveless, three-quarters jacket can be removed, for dancing, leaving a charming decollete bodice of green georgette, embroidered in silver.

It may be a long time before Americans don pajamas instead of dresses. But styles are set on the Lido. And facing the future it behooves every well-dressed woman to have at least one suit in her wardrobe to develop in her that nonchalance without which dinner pajamas should never be attempted. For pajamas are a bit like canes. If one is not to the matter born, it will take some time before one can carry them off.

Early Autumn Plans At St. Ann's Inn

Combining the celebration of the Labor day holiday with the opening of the Orange county fair, St. Ann's Inn, announce special attractions in honor of the double event, in the continuous chicken dinner to be served in the Inn dining-room each day from 12 o'clock noon until 8 p. m.

Each succeeding day of the week will be characterized by a special Orange County Fair luncheon at noon, and a chicken dinner in the evening. Manager Bisby has further announced in his serious fashion, that he will rise at 3 o'clock each Sunday morning to make special Bisby lemon pies for the demanding patrons of Sunday, day's feasts, and that the opening of the holiday season will be observed with a special turkey dinner, the first of the season.

"From then on, remember," announces the genial manager, "each Sunday, from 12 to 8 p. m., you can bring down your family and have a regular reunion, have dinner in our large dining room and then enjoy our lobby or sit on the porch, and tell all those old-time yarns and stories that you used to tell years ago back in Iowa, Missouri, or any other old state back there."

The autumn will also bring its train, a succession of delightful social events which will find their setting at the Inn, always a favorite spot for friendly hostesses to greet their guests. The young people (taking hearts as a standard, not years) are also wondering how soon the weekly dancing parties are to be resumed.

CLEAN SKILLETS
Greasy cooking vessels can be cleansed easily if you will add a bit of soda to the dishwasher.

BORAX WATER
If light colored hosiery is stained from black shoes, put a little borax in the water. It removes stain and makes washing easy.

NON-SKID DEVICE
To prevent a plate from slipping when you set it on ice in the refrigerator, place an ordinary fruit jar rubber under it.

Pianist Returns From Study in East

Mrs. J. H. Tompkins and Miss Leonora Tompkins reached home Saturday from a summer in the east, most of which the former spent in Illinois with some time in South Dakota, after setting her daughter settled at Lake Chautauqua for a summer of music study.

For Miss Tompkins, one of the well-known teachers and accompanists of the city, had the privilege of study under Ernest Hutcheson, not only as a member of his interpretation, teachers and concert class, but as his private pupil also.

Among the celebrities of the class were Dr. John Erskine, Guy Maler, Boris Hamborg, and Albert Stoessel—the latter is conductor of the New York Symphony orchestra. Dr. Erskine won great acclaim by his playing of the Schubert A minor Concerto with the orchestra.

One of the events of interest during the summer class work, was the appointment of Mr. Hutcheson as dean of the famous Juilliard musical foundation in New York City. Another event was the giving of a purse of gold by the class, to go towards a scholarship fund for some student next summer.

At the close of her two months of study, Miss Tompkins left for Aberdeen, South Dakota, her former home, to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tompkins. While there she was the incentive for a number of delightful social affairs and also took part in a musicale at the home of the president of the club federation, where she was featured on the program with Ralph Tension, tenor.

The Last March

By Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26

SKETCHES BY BESSEY
SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

Peary's many expeditions added little by little to his knowledge and he always got a little closer to the Pole. In 1906 he reached a point within 200 miles of the goal. It became difficult to raise money but finally a Peary Arctic Club was formed to pay the expenses and he set out in July, 1908, on his final and triumphant effort.

His ship was the Roosevelt, and was under Captain Bartlett, the finest ice master of the age.

The party consisted of seven white men, 17 Eskimos, a negro, 19 sledges and 133 dogs. The great march began in February, 1909.

Across a terrible ice field the last stages of the journey were made. With Matthew Henson (the negro), three Eskimos and 40 dogs, Peary penetrated where civilized man never had stepped. In five marches of 25 miles each the men struggled toward their goal. It was summer and the temperature was 33 degrees below zero.

THE FLYMITE

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK
REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Hey, hey!" yelled Clowdy. "Look at me. I'm stranded here, up in this tree. Please don't go away and leave me. Someone tell me what to do. The bear is growling. Now I fear perhaps he'll try to climb up here. Or maybe he will chew away, or claw this tree in two."

"Oh, don't be frightened," Scouty cried. "We'll find some plan which will be tried. Just hang on to that tree until we see what can be done." "All right," yelled Clowdy. "Hurry, though. The bunch of you should surely know that hanging here, above a bear is not exactly fun."

"The Flymites and Gooty Goos agreed there was no time to lose. They thought of every sort of plan, but nothing sounded right. A look around made Scouty frown. Said he, 'The sun is going down, and if we do not hurry, it will be as dark as night.'"

"And, in the meantime, Mister Bear flopped on the ground. He seemed aware that Clowdy still was in the tree, so he'd just lie and wait. Course Clowdy watched him from his branch, but didn't think he had a chance to ever get out of the tree. That's why he feared his fate."

Just then wee Carpy yelled in glee. "I have a dandy plan," said he. "We'll gather stones and rocks and sticks and throw them at the bear. I have a hunch that, like as not that ought to frighten him a lot. And when we start in throwing, to the woods, no doubt, he'll tear."

"Why, you're as clever as a fox," cried Scouty. Then they gathered rocks and threw them fast across the stream while Clowdy yelled, "Hurry!" This took the black bear by surprise. He jumped up to his screechy size, to dodge the stones a little while. And then he ran away.

(Clowdy gets another surprise in the next story)

Beauty and Health

DIET FOR RHEUMATISM

Foods that make too much flesh, besides spoiling the figure and the woman's good looks, often have another bad effect—they produce constipation, bilious attacks and rheumatism, or one of these three troubles. Not always—the fat woman usually has a grand digestion.

But Mrs. T. was overweight, had a bad skin, and had rheumatism. Here is the treatment a diet specialist prescribed for her. She was put on an apple diet for four weeks—during that time she ate an apple every two hours during the day, and after eating it, she drank a glass of cold water. In a week headaches and bilious feelings had gone entirely. (She took an enema daily, too, but she had been constipated for some time before the treatment.)

At the end of the month, thinner, healthier, with a clear skin and feeling like another sort of human being, she went on this modified diet—

For breakfast: a large bowl of oatmeal porridge, mush, or cooked wheat in breakfast dish form, with butter and cream but no sugar. Lunch: one or two cooked vegetables and a salad. Dinner: either fish, beef, mutton or chicken, with two non starch vegetables and a salad and stewed fruit for dessert. Starch, which ferments and congests in the stomach and plays havoc with the digestive and bowel system if taken in too large quantities, was almost eliminated, you see.

Gradually this diet was changed to include normal foods. Gradually the enema was left off—first once in two days, then once in three, then weekly, then stopped. The patient, who was well along in her thirties and looked 50 when the treatment began, dropped years and years and looked less than her age at the end of it. She will never be able to eat too much starch, but by keeping to a diet with more than the usual amount of greens and fruit, she need never have bilious headaches, a bad skin, a stodgy feeling, or a bad figure. The system must first be cleaned internally, for such a diet. The apples did this.

Troubled—At 15 years of age, you could not have any lines in your skin that will amount to anything. Whatever causes the trouble is a temporary matter and will disappear as you fill out in the coming years.

A FRIEND

A friend is one who stands to share Your every touch of grief and care. He comes by chance, but stays by choice;

Your praises he is quick to voice. No grievous fault or passing whim Can make an enemy of him. And though your need be great or small, His strength is yours throughout it all.

No matter where your path may turn Your welfare is his chief concern. No matter what your dream may be

He prays your triumph soon to see. There is no wish your tongue can tell But what it is your friend's as well. The life of him who has a friend Is double-guarded to the end.

CHILDREN SHOULD CHOOSE THEIR OWN VOCATIONS

By Olive Roberts Barton

After all the talking there has been about educations and vocations it seems to me that quite as many parents are on the wrong track about their children's future as ever.

That children are to go to college they seem to agree is a desirable thing. But that children are to go to college because beyond college are definite things they wish to do is quite another matter. They cannot seem to mix the two ideas.

"John wants to be a farmer," says John Smith sr. "I had to put my foot down on that good and hard. What does he think I've been working for all these years? John's going to have a college education and have a chance I never had!"

Doesn't young John's father that his son's idea of farming is the very reason he should go to college? Not because he has a vague idea that young John is to have one of those hazy things known as a chance? What chance? He doesn't know himself. He is sending away to different colleges and universities for catalogs, and is asking around among his friends which college they think is "best."

Why not send John to a university that has a good course in agriculture and educate John's desire to do a certain thing?

Too many parents think that boys and girls don't know their own minds when they say they would like to do this thing or that.

I knew a boy who wanted to be a musician. He talked constantly of being an orchestra leader. The father, hard-headed and practical put him into a university for a course in business training. Later he went into a bank. He thought the boy's talk was mere prattle.

That boy is saving every penny he can and studying music at night. Some day he may be a great musician. In this case the boy's determination rose above the father's mistake and the wasted years.

NEW SITE FOR TRAINING CAMP GETS APPROVAL

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif., Aug. 30.—A site for the California National Guard encampment for the next 25 years was assured here today with the selection and approval of a 2000-acre tract four miles from this city.

The negotiations climaxed more than a year of effort on the part of state officials to obtain the land, with the co-operation of local business men, since the war department declared the Morro road site an ideal one for military training purposes.

Business interests purchased the land and leased it to the state for the 25-year period with an option to buy during that time.

In addition the government will add the state, having agreed to make improvement expenditures amounting to $300,000. Surveys already have been made by army engineers for a dam which will supply water. Building construction will start immediately in preparation for the housing of all National Guard troops in the state in 1928.

The site has a wide plain for drill and camp grounds, an aviation field site, gravity water and normally no rainfall or hot weather during the training period. It is a day's march from Port San Luis.

RASH CAUSED DISFIGUREMENT

Lost Sleep Through Itching. Cuticura Heals.

"I had a rash break out on my back and chest. Later it developed into pimples and some of them festered. They spread up to my neck and face and caused disfigurement. My clothing aggravated them quite a lot, and I lost some sleep through the intense itching. The trouble lasted about four months. I tried different remedies but they did little or no good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I got relief so purchased more and in a short time I was completely healed." (Signed) H. S. STANDING BEAR WILL ADDRESS COUNTY P.-T. A.

Chief Standing Bear, a full-blooded Ogallala Sioux chieftain, will be one of the speakers on the January program of the Fourth (Orange county) District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, in accordance with the plans for work among the reservation Indians under the leadership of Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, district president. In this work, Mrs. Kelsey is assisted by Mrs. Florence Summers, of Atwood, district chairman of American citizenship.

Chief Standing Bear is an extremely interesting personage not only because of his tribal honors but also on account of his intellectual attainments and his activities in the attempt to better conditions among his people. He is the first accredited teacher among the Indians and also was assistant rector on the Rosebud reservation. In his capacity as chief of the tribe, he adopted the Prince of Wales into blood brotherhood among the Sioux, and would have officiated recently when President Coolidge was similarly honored, if he could have made the trip from California. In the case of President Coolidge, the ceremony was conducted by his brother in the name of Standing Bear.

The Parent-Teacher movement to better health and educational conditions among reservation Indians, is highly praised by Standing Bear, who sees in the appointment of an active committee by the executive board of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers, the first step toward constructive action for the betterment of conditions among Indians.

HERE AND THERE WITH LEGION MEN

A meeting of the executive committee of Santa Ana post No. 131 was held last night. It was the last meeting of the "old gang" and there were tears when the members bade each other goodbye. When the executive committee meets again, a new crowd will be in office.

Carl Edgar, candidate for commander, and present first vice commander, handed in his resignation as chairman of the Boy Scout committee and as scoutmaster, which were accepted by Commander Markel. Edgar asked that a committee be appointed to investigate charges made against him and stated that if the committee exonerated him that he would be willing to take back the two responsible jobs. Markel said he would appoint a committee for investigation today and by tomorrow would name Edgar's successor to the troop.

Edgar's action was the topic of an hour's debate before the executive committee, which, in the end, led to nothing.

Special ballots for the election to be held on the night of September 8, were ordered printed.

Markel appealed to the three candidates running for commander this year not to allow personalities to creep into the fight and that all three pledge themselves to the post, regardless of who carried away the honors. All three made statements showing that no ill feeling would prevail after the battle of the ballots.

"I always thought it was a foregone conclusion that the losers in the race would get behind the post, regardless of who wins. My first allegiance is to the post."—Charles Van Wyk.

"I'll let my past record show what I'll do. I'm even paying my 1928 dues before the election is held."—Carl Edgar.

"Regardless of who wins, you'll find me here next year, squawking the same as ever."—Franklin Grouard.

"Happy" Wince, California's fun maker at national conventions may go to Paris, after all. "Happy" was not so happy when he counted his francs and learned there wasn't enough to make the convention city this year, but a "Happy" fund is well under way in Los Angeles county and it promises to land Wince in Paris in time to attend the opening session.

Legionnaires Bill Murphy, of hotel fame, and Wilbur Getty, the latter of whom is, among other things, chairman of the publicity committee of 131, (he'll admit it) were among those in Los Angeles the other day wishing bon voyage to delegates to Paris.

In keeping the name of Getty before the Legion of California, a number of San Diego boosters of Getty, together with Joe Plank, head of the Forty and Eight, and other prominent Legionnaires of Santa Ana, held a little "get-together" meeting at the home of Bill Wieland the other night.

This Bill Wieland is a "card." He's a candidate for second vice commander and yet he nominated another man for the job. He also is a candidate for the executive committee. "You can never tell what I'll do," he said. "I may run for one, both or neither one of the jobs."

"Some of this stuff you hear about the election is a lot of appeasement. Everybody can't win, so let the best man have it and the losers back 'em up," Bill said.

CRANSTON WRITES PAMPHLET ON SANTA ANA SCHOOLS AND EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

"Organization and Objectives of the Santa Ana Schools" is the title of an article prepared by J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of schools, to be published in pamphlet form for distribution among the citizens of the community. The immediate purpose of this publicity, Superintendent Cranston explained, is to acquaint the voters and taxpayers of the school district with its educational facilities as well as to advertise the same to those planning to make Santa Ana their future home.

The article goes on to say that, judgment of three or four teachers rather than upon the judgment of one teacher.

The above are some of the most apparent advantages of the departmental plan as worked out in the Santa Ana city schools. The Junior High Schools. The junior high school comprises the seventh, eighth and ninth grades or years, and is organized on the high school plan, that is the program and schedule of classes are arranged similar to those of the senior high school. This plan enables students to pass from the junior high to the senior high with the least difficulty. The junior high bridges the gap that formerly existed between the eighth and ninth grades or between what was known as the common schools of eight grades and the high school. Previous to the organization of the junior high schools, the greatest school mortality was bound to be at the end of the eighth grade.

It is our purpose in the junior high school program to offer a great variety of courses or lines of activity in order that the student may find in what lines of work or field of endeavor he has special interest, aptitude and ability. In other words, that he may, during his junior high school course, find himself so that when he enters upon his senior high school course he may have something of a definite purpose in mind as to what particular line of work he wishes to pursue as a preparation for his future vocation. To further assist the student to decide on his future vocation, classes in vocational guidance are organized in our junior high schools. In these classes students are given the opportunities and advantages of the various lines of business and professions. In this way the student is led to select the business or profession that appeals to him and for which he believes he has ability. This early decision to prepare for a particular business or profession has the added advantage in that he formulates in his own mind a definite purpose in the pursuit of his studies in both the junior and senior high school courses. He may change his mind and in many cases will, but the fact that he is anchored to a definite line of procedure will mean much to him in the quantity and quality of his school work and in the habits he forms during his school life.

Elementary
Leaving the kindergarten at six years of age the child enters a six-year course in what is known as our elementary schools. Here he is trained in the so-called fundamentals of an education: reading, writing, spelling, arithmetic, geography, history, elementary civics, language, music, art, nature study, health habits and physical education. It is our purpose to stress the essentials in the foregoing subjects. Life is too short to be spent on non-essentials. But here the child learns many things not found in books and often times of more importance. He is living in a small democracy where he is brought in contact with a great variety of traits of character and it is here he must learn to respect the rights of others, a valuable lesson in self-denial and self-restraint.

Departmental Plan
"The departmental plan has been in use in the upper grades for a number of years. The plan was extended to include the first six grades in February, 1916 more as an experiment, and proved so desirable and successful that it has been adopted as a permanent feature of our elementary school work.

The first six grades are divided into two sections: The first, second and third grades in the first section and the fourth, fifth and sixth grades in the second section. To illustrate how the plan is worked out, one teacher is assigned reading and phonics in the first, second and third grades, or first section, and another teacher reading and literature in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades, or second section, and so on for the various subjects.

The advantages claimed for this plan are:
1. Each teacher is assigned the subject she prefers to teach.
2. The teacher is given the opportunity of concentrating her time, energy and ability over one or two subjects and does not scatter her time, energy and ability over from eight to 12 subjects, as per the old plan.
3. The teacher, by concentrating her time and ability on one or two subjects, may become an expert in teaching that subject.
4. Each subject receives its due proportion of time and attention—not so in the old plan.
5. The class, rather than the teacher, passes at the end of each period, thus giving pupils and teachers a change of personalities and in the case of pupils, a change of rooms.
6. If one teacher fails to understand a certain boy or girl, the other teachers in her section may have no such difficulty and thus assist the teacher having difficulty, and the so-called difficult boy or girl instead of having one chance to make good or be understood has two or three other chances.
7. It provides an easy way of making individual promotions, not only by grades, but by subjects.
8. It makes correlation of subjects not only possible, but more desirable on the part of teachers, because teachers find the time to plan correlation and being more or less expert in her subject sees more ways in which her subject may be correlated with other subjects.
9. It enables the superintendent or supervisor to locate responsibility more easily. For example: If a teacher is assigned the subject of arithmetic in the third, fourth and fifth grades, when her sixth grade class passes to the seventh grade and is found poorly prepared, she is largely responsible, especially so if she has been in charge of that work for three years.
10. It makes discipline easier, because discipline is largely a matter of getting and holding the interest and attention of pupils and the teacher who is teaching what she prefers to teach and has the time and opportunity to prepare her work, can more easily get and hold the interest and attention of her pupils.
11. It helps to break up the monotony of school work by change of pupils and teachers.
12. Teachers who have given the plan a thorough trial are more happy and enthusiastic in their work. The same is true of pupils.
13. It is less expensive than the old plan, because in many cases the same set of material or books may be used for one whole section composed in some cases of six different classes. Teachers need less supervision.
14. It enables the superintendent to select his new teachers by subjects rather than by grades.
15. Pupils are promoted or not promoted upon the combined

Senior High School
The senior high school plan completes what is known as the six, three year plan in our public school system. That is six years in the elementary schools, three years in the junior high school, and three years in the senior high school.

As the student passes from the junior to the senior high school, if he has improved his opportunities in his junior high school course he is prepared to select his course with more intelligence and definiteness of purpose. He should be prepared to do more intensive thinking and accomplish more work in less time and with less effort. In other words if he has learned how to study, how to attack his problems he has learned a valuable lesson, a lesson that will mean much to him in his senior high school course, and in his future career.

The senior high school is in a very true sense the people's college. For it is here that a large per cent of those who have entered this school close their school life. But there is another sense in which the senior high school is the people's college. Our high schools of today are better equipped in many ways, are offering a greater variety of courses, more practical and more advanced and are doing more efficient work than the colleges were doing 30 years ago. The Santa Ana Senior high is well equipped to offer efficient training in science, literature, modern languages, history, economics, citizenship, commercial, including bookkeeping, typing, business methods, household economics and manual arts including woodwork, machine and auto shop work.

If our high school graduates of today have during their high school course made the best of their opportunities and advantages, they should be well prepared to either pursue their education in college or to take their places in the ordinary affairs of life, to exercise their right of franchise intelligently and meet their responsibilities as American citizens in a way that will be a credit to themselves and to those who have had a part in training for life. For it is our purpose in education to so develop a child physically, mentally and morally that he may become an asset to the community in which he lives, in other words to so train him that he may become physically fit, mentally strong and morally straight.

College education is in the case of many young people much to be desired and very much worth while, nevertheless the high school graduate of today who has pursued his course with a definite idea of doing something purposeful in life has a good foundation on which to build his future career.

The Santa Ana Junior college was organized in 1915 with the following objectives in mind: (1) To offer two years of college work to those who wish to take a college course at the least possible expense and under home influences. (2) To provide two years of college education to those high school graduates who are undecided as to just what they want to do. In the past two many high school graduates have been going away to college with no definite purpose in mind. They have been influenced in going to college by friends or because they thought it was the custom and proper thing to do, but with no definite objective in mind. The result has been in a number of cases that they drifted about for a year or two and then dropped out, a very unfortunate experience for any young person and for parents who paid the bill. Two years of junior college training gives young people more time in which to decide what they wish to do.

The Santa Ana junior college is ranked among the highest in the state. Students completing a course here are admitted to the junior year of any of the colleges and universities of California. The Santa Ana school system offers them, 1½ years of kindergarten training, six years of elementary, three years of junior high, three years of senior high and two years of junior college or 15½ years of education at home.

Financial
The cost of maintaining the schools of Santa Ana during the past year—1926-27 was as follows: Kindergarten, $21,414.73; elementary, $286,013.12; junior high and senior high schools, $97,480.57. Cost per pupil, kindergarten, $87.76; elementary, $31.97; junior high, $100; senior high, $118; junior college, $322.42.

Attendance
The total attendance in all the departments this past year, 1926-27 was: Kindergarten, 603; elementary, 3271; junior high, 1296; senior high school, 962; junior college, 328. Grand Total, 6400. As evidence of the growth of Santa Ana in the past 10 years the following comparison is of interest: Total attendance of all departments during the year 1916-17, 3299. For the year 1926-27, 6400, an increase of 3101 or 95%.

Courtesy greyhounds, the dogs which seem to have caught the popular fancy at present, will be among the featured exhibits, while other famous dogs of almost every known breed are to strive for honors at the show.

A champion wire-haired fox terrier, owned by Al and Charles Christie, of Hollywood, a famous show dog from the X-Quiz-It kennels, of Hollywood, with a noted French bull dog owned by Mr. and Mrs. William L. "If I fine them, the parents have to pay, and it is then I want to punish, not the parents, the superior judge declared.

Judge Allen has had a number of such cases recently, he said, and there are several drivers' licenses "in pawn" now, awaiting their owners, who can get them back only through study.

OFFICERS PLAN
WAR ON LIGHTS

For the purpose of making surveys of headlight conditions in all counties before the state-wide headlight campaign goes into effect, all state inspectors have been requested to communicate with county captains according to word received here today by Inspector Walter P. Greer.

The purpose of the survey will be to determine how many men in each county will be available for night work in checking automobile headlights, it was said.

City police officers in the various towns of the state also will be asked to aid in the campaign against illegal lights, it was said.

No date has been set, according to Greer, for the start of the campaign, "the state department wishing to make all arrangements for enforcing it before the start is made."

ARAB STEEDS TO BE SHOWN
DURING FAIR

For the first time in the history of California Horse shows a special class has been created for purebred Arabians which will be shown at Orange county's second annual night horse show to be held Wednesday, Thursday and Saturday, during fair week, officials of the show announced today in addition to naming judges and the complete horse show stake list.

With the Orange county fair horse show as the initial show place for Arabians in the state this year, officials declare the Arabian horses will have a well-defined classification at the leading western horse shows within a few years.

Having obtained more sponsors for stakes than were listed, three new classes were added, according to J. R. Ragan. The new stakes include a special ladies five-gaited touch-and-go sweepstakes and in the fine harness horse division.

According to Manager Elbert Deffenbach, directing the horse show events, spectators are assured of a well-balanced program with the necessary "spice" by the addition of two classes for hunters and jumpers. One for handy hunters, he said, a performance over four mixed jumps, and an open event over four jumps, four feet six inches high.

Having received considerable support from virtually every stable in southern California, officials said today the entry list has reached nearly 200. All efforts have been directed toward making this second annual event an outstanding one in southern California horse activities, secretary A. M. Stanley declared.

Judges for the second annual Orange county horse show, according to Elbert Deffenbach, Los Angeles, manager, are as follows: Colonel Ben R. Middleton, of Mexico, Mo., judge of the five and three gaited classes. Middleton is considered by expert horsemen as one of the best gaited judges in the United States. He is the owner of the famous world champion five gaited stallion, Rex McDonald.

Rinaldo L. Cole, captain of the 11th cavalry, Presidio Monterey, judge of the hunters and jumpers, and Polo events.

R. C. Mesmer, of Los Angeles, judge of the stock horses. The judge for the Arabian horses, which will be shown in a class at the Orange County Fair Horse Show for the first time in the history of such shows on the coast, according to Deffenbach, is to be named at a later date.

S. E. Kramer, of Santa Barbara, has been selected ringmaster. Kramer, who is one of the best known ringmasters in southern California, having been ringmaster at the Ventura Horse show last year, and the Pomona show the preceding year, is one of the leading horsemen of Santa Barbara county.

Mat S. Cohen, of Los Angeles, secretary of the Los Angeles National Horse Show association, will be the announcer for the Orange County Horse show.

LEGIONNAIRES
OFF SATURDAY
ON PARIS TRIP

Nine Delegates from Here
To Attend Convention
Sailing September 10

Santa Ana American legion and auxiliary members are winding up their affairs here today preparatory to leaving Saturday for the national American legion convention in Paris.

"The Big Parade" from Southern California will leave on that date for New York and among the 500 or more expected to depart at that time will be many war brides and in some cases the children who, for the first time, are going to the land of their mothers' birth.

From Santa Ana will go nine delegates and most of them will be aboard the Leviathan when she pulls anchor from New York on September 10.

Miss Henrietta Lykke and her sister Miss Nora Lykke, 609 North Van Ness street, will leave here Saturday afternoon, getting away from Los Angeles at 6:30 p. m. Saturday. They will not go on the Legion special as they have mapped out a route which will give them two days in Chicago, before going on to New York. They will sail on the Leviathan.

William Murphy, of the Santa Ana Hotel, delegate at large from the state of California for the Forty and Eight society, will leave with the special, but will sail from New York on the "La Grasse," the same date the Leviathan sails.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Winbiger will go with the special train out of Los Angeles early Saturday afternoon. They will sail on the Leviathan and after the Paris convention is over will tour a number of European countries, including Spain, Italy, Germany and Belgium. They do not expect to return to Santa Ana until the forepart of December.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kenyon, 208 East Walnut street, were in Los Angeles yesterday on their final shopping tour before departing for Paris. They will go on the special train and will sail on the Leviathan.

Raymond Ellis, 1502 French street, farm bureau employee, is leaving with the special train Saturday out of Los Angeles.

Among the latest entrants into the Paris trip lists are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Palm. Palm is secretary-manager of the Santa Ana Finance company. They are expected to leave here tomorrow and will meet the delegation from California in New York, it was said.

Others who expect to sail on the Leviathan are Dr. F. L. Chapline and wife, of Orange. Mrs. Chapline is a former state head of the auxiliary and she never misses a national convention, regardless of where it may be.

Most of the Santa Anans are expected to return here the latter part of October, leaving Paris on October 11.

STRUGGLES TOLD BY ARMENIAN LECTURER

That America has the greatest economical, social, political, educational and religious message for humanity was asserted last night by Bagdasar Kirkor Baghdigian in his lecture on "My Amazing Adventures in Finding Happiness and Success," at the Elbell clubhouse, before a large audience.

"Today's world hunger for things worth while is answered by the idealism of the new world," he said. "With this idealism is wrapped the secret of physical fitness, mental alertness, dynamic usefulness and spiritual consciousness."

Mr. Baghdigian, a native of Armenia, for one hour touched upon the high state of his handicaps and struggles and showed how "by the use of God's law" he "made every one of them a stepping stone," which brought him to the position of usefulness he occupies.

"If I, with all the handicaps and obstacles, can come to where I am, is there any reason why there should be a single failure in America?" was his final challenge.

Tonight Mr. Baghdigian will speak on the subject, "Your Fortune is in Your Misfortune."

COOLIDGES SAW WEDDING

President and Mrs. Coolidge motored 66 miles to Newcastle, Wyo., the other day to attend the wedding of Miss Dorothy Mondell (above) and Alexander W. Young Gregg recently won national note when he opposed 16 attorneys in the Ford tax suit.

MRS. NAU TELLS
B. & P. W. GIRLS
OF WORLD TOUR

A travel tour, in which members of the Business and Professional Women's club were "personally conducted" by Mrs. Samuel W. Nau, was the very enjoyable experience which the clubwomen enjoyed yesterday at their weekly luncheon at St. Ann's Inn.

For Mrs. Nau, who recently returned from a round-the-world trip in which she and Mr. Nau and Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Stevens of Tus-tin, joined a party of some 200 travelers, gave so vivid a description of some of the lands visited, that those privileged to hear her, felt that the talk was next best to the actual experiences.

A small globe in which the tiny American flag marked the sailing point of Los Angeles harbor, and upon which each lap of the journey was traced, made Mrs. Nau's talk that much more graphic, and in fancy, every member sailed with her party over the unfamiliar seas of the southern latitudes.

"To get the most out of traveling, one must have, added to a love of nature, a certain knowledge of geography," explained the speaker, as she traced the first voyage of over 2000 miles to Hawaii, and thence south and west to Samoa, still south and west, their vessel became an actual place, not a colored spot on a map, and they visioned with her, the beautiful fields, and the verdure-clad mountains soaring 13,000 feet into the air. Tasmania took on the melancholy tones of a British penal settlement, which it was for many years; and Australia became truly the only continent lying entirely in the southern hemisphere, whose soil and climate they viewed as not to be compared with North America.

In New Guinea, were the thrills of being in proximity to actual cannibals; in the Java sea were different thrills from being close to pearl fisheries, and Java itself yielded exquisite articles, many of which Mrs. Nau had to show the B. and P. W. members, including several especially fine Batik sarongs.

Portuguese East Africa and the Zambesi river, with the famous Victoria Falls buried in mists, were

1000 CARRIER
PIGEONS WILL BE IN PARADE

Recognition of the important part which carrier pigeons played in the world war will be made as the grand climax of the Orange County Anniversary day parade in Fullerton, November 11, it was announced today by Hugh Miller, parade manager.

Between 500 and 1000 carrier pigeons will be released as nearly simultaneously as possible as the final float of the parade passes the reviewing stand. The fluttering wings of this huge flock of birds is expected to prove a spectacular and effective demonstration, significant of the dove of peace hovering over the world with the signing of the Armistice, November 11, 1918.

This release of carrier pigeons, it is expected, will be the largest ever attempted in the United States and will be under the immediate direction of Captain Earl Delhauer of Ontario who was in charge of United States army carrier pigeon operations during the World War.

Captain Delhauer has entered 200 birds from his own private lofts in Ontario, including a number of captured German birds, now more than 12 years old, and their progeny as well. In addition the group entered by Captain Delhauer will contain birds which served in the army service overseas, some of whom were awarded the distinguished service cross for their work in carrying important messages in battle areas. Fifty more birds have been entered from Ontario junior high school and other pigeon fanciers throughout all of Southern California have signified their intention of entering additional pigeons in the spectacular release, so that at least 500 are assured.

CITY ENGINEER TO PAINT EQUIPMENT

All Santa Ana street and water department equipment is being repainted and in the future will bear a uniform color, Clyde Jenken, city engineer, announced today.

The various pieces, automobiles, carts, wheelbarrows and all other equipment is being repainted as quickly as possible and in a short time will wear a coat of French gray and red. There are approximately 28 different pieces.

"A uniformity in color adds to the looks of the city property and is a boost for the city when seen by strangers. At the same time, it aids in preserving the equipment," Jenken said.

The red and gray also is being painted on all fire plugs in the city and this, too, adds to the appearance of the streets, Jenken said.

Meissen, Germany, the town where Dresden china is made, will be 1000 years old in May, 1929. A feature of the festivities will be a chime of bells made of porcelain.

Miss Jeannette McFadden
Makes Annual Report
To Board of Trustees

CHILD DEPARTMENT SHOWS BIG GROWTH

Nearly 800 New Patrons
Added During Year and
Making Total Over 9000

Home circulation at the Santa Ana city library for the year ending June 30 totaled 218,828, according to the annual library report submitted last night to the board of trustees by Miss Jeannette McFadden, city librarian. This is an increase of 7511 over the year ending June 30, 1926.

The report included the total circulation figures for the past five years, which were 149,515 for 1923, 183,374 for 1924, 203,354 for 1925, 211,817 for 1926, and 218,828 for 1927.

In her introduction to the report, Miss McFadden stated: "In reviewing the year's work, if one may judge of the increase in our importance through the unusually large number of books that have been worn out and discarded through constant wear, the extensive use of our reference department, the large number of requests for information of one kind and another by phone and by mail, not only from the city, but from the surrounding country, which all goes to prove that there is a marked increase of interest by our citizens and taxpayers in their public library, its work and its needs. The people of Santa Ana are realizing as never before what the public library has to offer them."

Remarkable that $1 per capita is the average rate for the maintenance of a public library, the librarian wrote, "Very few people realize what an exceedingly economical service the city provides for itself through its public library and what large returns it gets for the money expended. One dollar per capita is considered a very reasonable rate for a city to furnish its library to live on. Considering that the maintenance expenditure per capita of the Santa Ana public library for the past year was .87 and the maintenance expenditure per volume circulated was .12."

The report stated that "reference work has been exceedingly heavy throughout the year. High school students, college students, teachers, study clubs, laboring men engaged in many vocations, business and professional men make constant use of our reference facilities."

Concerning the children's department, the year has seen a substantial growth which is proved by the following figures: "The total circulation of books from this department was 68,510, of which 43,775 was from the main library and 24,735 from the branches and school deposits. There was added to the children's department for the year 1111 books, while 538 have been discarded for one reason or another, leaving 7441 books in this department on June 30."

During the past year the library has added 3546 volumes, of which 3473 were by purchase, 22 by gift, and 147 by binding magazines to its shelves. One thousand

AT THE THEATERS

"Hula," fascinating romance of the Hawaiian Islands starring Clara Bow, closes at the West Coast Walker theater tonight.

WEST COAST-WALKER
Clara Bow, the bouncing, dashing "madcap of the screen" has gone and done it again!

Not so long ago the little Paramount star stormed the country with Elinor Glyn's "It." This was followed by "Rough House Rosie." Now she's back with one that's even better.

"Hula" closes at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight.

The story itself is perfect for the lovely red-head, so much so that one can believe Armine Von Tempel had Clara in mind when she wrote the popular novel.

Laid in the Hawaiian Islands, against a background of beauty and a strange mixture of high, but "fast living" society life in which an American girl is growing up, the tale is one of a thousand enjoyable kinks. Clara Bow appears as "Hula" a child who loves the out-of-doors rather than the set which surrounds her devoted but somewhat dissolute father. She has been brought up by Uncle Edwin, whose ideas of life differ from those of "Old Bill" Calhoun, her father. "Hula" clings to Uncle Edwin until Anthony Haldane, an English engineer, admirably played by Clive Brook, enters the scene.

How "Hula" runs a gauntlet of trouble and complications in obtaining her true love makes the basis for a splendid screen story. As usual Miss Bow takes most of the glory in the acting lines, but the supporting cast is tip-top. Albert Gran is perfectly cast as the father; Arnold Kent, Arlette Marchal and Agostino Borgato carry out what is demanded of them very nicely.

One of Fanchon and Marco's clever ideas "Jade" lend a finishing touch to the program. "Jade" is a remarkable act and brings out some unusually clever stage acts.

YOST THEATER
The Yost theater announces the most important picture of its season in "The Sea Beast," which closes tonight. This pictureization of Herman Melville's "Moby Dick" was selected by John Barrymore for his return to the screen under contract with the Warner Brothers, after his stage triumphs as the greatest "Hamlet" of his generation.

"Moby Dick"—the name of a white whale of demonic power—has, as a novel, been accepted as the most authentic and stirring of all American stories of sea adventure. As a screen play, it has been greeted as the mightiest of all, in a season of remarkable pictures. It is a story of the whaling days of 1840 with a scene that shifts from New England across the seas to Java.

The picture was adapted to the screen by Best Meredith and directed by Millard Webb. Titles were written by Rupert Hughes. The cast includes Dolores Costello and George O'Hara.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 30.—A swarm of bees looking for a home early this year selected a window ledge of an apartment house. Attempts to dislodge them failed. The tenants moved out and the bees remained—for five months. The other day their hive was chopped away, but they still are swarming about the building.

PULSE SHOWS HEALTH
NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Medical examiners, who have long sought a simple test that will show a person's general condition, have found the answer in the human pulse. Comparison of the pulse rate, before and after exercise, is the surest single test, according to Dr. James F. Rogers, physical education chief of the Federal Bureau of Education.

ANOTHER PREVIEW VISITS SANTA ANA

Santa Ana theater fans will be asked to express their opinion of a newly released picture, when they witness the premier showing of Gene Stratton Porter's latest screen triumph, at the Yost Broadway theater tonight.

The preview is the third to come to the Yost Broadway during the past two weeks. Reginald Denny in "That's My Daddy" and a Hoot Gibson preview were the other two.

The title of tonight's feature attraction could not be learned today. Several persons have advanced the opinion that it possibly may be Gene Stratton Porter's latest novel "The Harvester." The preview is an F.B.O. picture.

In addition to the preview the regular picture, "Back to God's Country," a James Oliver Curwood picture starring Renee Adoree act completes the bill.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER
A picture as impressive as the vast uncharted snow regions of the north is holding forth at the Yost Broadway theater.

It is "Back to God's Country," a dynamic tale of the north, taken from James Oliver Curwood's ever-popular novel of the same name, and has been made into a really spectacular production by Irvine Willat who directed it for Universal.

The story might be likened to the snow country, full of surprises to the explorer traveling its smooth sparkling surface. He plows through snow drifts, rises on knolls from where he can overlook the placid sea of snow, then to the top of a mountain range whence he sees the boundless panorama of nature's mighty creation.

This is the way "Back to God's Country" impressed the reviewer. The rise and the drifts representing minor crises and the mountain representing the exciting climax of a tale told as smoothly as the newly fallen snow.

Renee Adoree is effervescent in her role which is both dramatic and gaily youthful. This characterization will win for her many more fans. Robert Frazer, is handsome and manly in the male lead and demonstrates his ability as a real actor.

The supporting cast and the man who chose the characters for their part, must come in for well merited praise. Each one fits his role splendidly: Mitchell Lewis as Miss Adoree's kindly father, Walter Long as the unscrupulous ship's captain and Adolph Milar and James Mason as aids in his nefarious work.

P.-T. A. To Have Booth at Fair

Members of the Santa Ana City Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, will be in charge of the P.-T. A. booth on the opening day, September 5, of the Orange county fair, it was announced today by Mrs. Neil Beisel, publicity chairman. In conference with its custom in the past, the district organization will sell dairy products, home-made pies, cakes and sandwiches, and hot coffee. The funds obtained through these activities, it was announced, will be used for various welfare activities, including the student's loan fund, the children's health camp, and milk for undernourished children in the schools.

Prison Officials Refuse To Tell Of New Arrivals

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Aug. 30.—When the door of the federal penitentiary here closes on a sentenced man he can expect the fullest protection from the outside world, according to statements given the United Press by Warden T. B. White.

White declared that publicity given men sent to prison was unfair to both the sentenced men and to young men who might take up a life of crime.

The federal penitentiary's officials refuse to announce the arrival of a new prisoner.

"Some of these men have gone wrong without the knowledge of their parents or friends," said White. "Some of them are here and their relatives don't know it. Imagine the shock that would come to a mother if her son committed some crime unknown to her and she received her first news of it in some newspaper."

OLD WATER CART FASCINATING ANIMAL WAGONS IN CIRCUS ARE RECALLED YOUNGSTERS FOLLOW DRIVER

By HELEN L. COFFIN

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 30.— Newport Beach has a unique attraction of particular fascination to the children. This is a real, old-fashioned water cart, drawn by a team of horses, which makes its regular rounds sprinkling the unpaved roads.

Neil McMillan, the driver, sits high up on a seat that has a chair back and beside him is his shaggy old alreale, mildly interested in what is going on, but too sleepy to get down and argue about anything. The cart rumbles along like one of the old animal wagons in a circus procession and the shaggy dog might be a bear or even one of the lions. And behind the cart is always a procession of barefooted children, squealing out in glee whenever the driver puts his foot on the lever and the water comes spraying out over them.

And then every once in a while, he has to drive back to the nearest fire plug and load with more water. It is a problem and leisurely ritual. Slowly the driver swings himself down from his high seat, takes his hose onto the plug, turns on the water, and waits. Gurgles, gurgles, splash; slowly the reservoir fills up, overflows; spatters on the dog, who opens one eye, and then dribbles down on whatever small boy's foot happens near. Then the driver slowly takes off the hose, turns off the water, hangs up the wrench, climbs aboard "Gituip!" and rumbles off. This is a part of beach life which never palls upon the younger vacation crowd. And even the grownups are interested. "Here comes the watering man!" they cry. And it takes them back to some long ago day in a far-off town when they were a part of the barefooted hangers-on.

ORANGE COUNTY FRUIT GOES TO FOREIGN PORTS

ORANGE, Aug. 30.—Establishing a new record for a single week's export business, the California Fruit Growers' exchange will ship 100 cars of Valencia oranges to European markets this week, according to L. D. Palmer, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange, which is a member of the state organization.

Palmer stated that this will set an all-time mark, as the California exchange has never before equalled this record in a single week.

The Orange county exchange will come in for some of the glory in helping establish the new record for approximately 25 per cent of the fruit in the big export shipments comes from the local exchange.

All the citrus exports are shipped under a special California Sunkist label, with only a very small percentage of the choice fruit going out under the regulation house label, Palmer stated.

Make Your Own Skin Whitener with Lemons

The juice of two lemons squeezed into a bottle with Orchard White, will soothe sunburn, and clear up freckles, tan, discolored skin quicker than anything you can buy already prepared, and it doesn't cost you near as much.

Any druggist can sell you Orchard White, and it only takes a minute to mix it with the juice of two lemons. Then you have enough to last you all season.

It makes a delightful lotion which you can put on your face, neck, arms or hands at any time, and it will keep them nice and white. Mix a bottle now, so you will have it handy to use should your skin begin to turn dark, or rough.—Adv.

BLAUER GROCERS MEET PLATTS TONIGHT

Campus Comment
by BOB MATHERNE

The ultimate welfare of his men—that is Walter Christie's first thought in coaching track at California.

Christie will soon start on his thirty-sixth season as a coach of track at American schools and colleges.

Twenty-six of those years have been spent at Berkeley. The others have been divided at Halsey School in New York, Williams, Columbia, Princeton and Annapolis.

Christie, in his many years as a coach, has developed many nationally known stars, especially running stars. To him also goes credit for California's teams of 1921, 1922 and 1923, that won the L. C. 4-A championships.

Christie's methods of training are like Christie.

He is not out solely for great track men; he is out to develop each candidate to that particular candidate's capacity. He never pushes his men, he never makes them perform on their nerve alone.

The California mentor will spend hours with freshmen who can hardly hope ever to make a point in a meet, to help them improve just a bit. All because he says it is good for them to know how it is done.

Truly, he is quite different from a lot of coaches who give their time only to the ones who show future greatness.

Two tackles are needed badly at Wisconsin this year. The three Badgers who took care of those two positions last year were seniors, and, therefore, are gone. The only man of any experience left is Schweers, a reserve. Glenn Thistlewaite, however, has a number of candidates who he hopes will be able to step in capably without his being forced to transfer some of the guard or center candidates to the tackle positions.

Princeton and Harvard will get the two young golfers, Eugene Hopkins and Phillips Finlay, who were among the leaders qualifying in the national amateur meet. Hopkins, it is reported, will go to Princeton, and Finlay will enter Harvard this fall.

Davis-Ellkins certainly didn't try to arrange any easy football schedule for this fall. A glimpse over their menu reveals the fact that the small West Virginia college is going to play the Army, the Navy, Georgetown, Geneva and West Virginia Wesleyan. Doesn't seem much hope for many victories there.

Georgia backfield candidates promise that school one of the strongest backfields in the south this year. There are two quarterbacks, four halfbacks and a fullback who will be playing either a second or third year this fall, in addition to a number of very promising graduated freshmen.

GANS, FIELDS ARE READY FOR BATTLE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—Baby Joe Gans, negro lightweight champion, and Jackie Fields, claim to tonight in the 10 round main event at the Olympic with "even money, and take your choice," the phrase predicting the closeness of the battle.

The fighters are signed to come in at 140 pounds at 2 p. m. today, a figure either will have to scale and get a title bout with Mushy Callahan, junior welterweight champion.

Gans, a natural lightweight and persistent challenger of Sammy Mandell, world's lightweight champion, will probably pit the beam at 137½, with Fields coming in two pounds heavier.

Both fighters are "sharpshooters," clever boxers and each possesses a knockout wallop, an indication that the bout may terminate by a knockout well inside the limit.

Herman Auerbach, Salt Lake 152 pounder, meets Freddie Mack, middleweight, in the semi-windup. Both of these boys are heavy punchers and willing mixers.

Henry Chavez, of Denver, meets Joe Pimental, local featherweight, in the special event.

Two four rounders complete the card.

SANGOR FAVORITE

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 30.—Young Nationalists and Joey Sangor, Milwaukee, featherweights, will fight a 10 round main event here tonight. Sangor is favored to win.

CHAMBER MEN WILL ENJOY 3 DAYS OF GOLF

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 30.—Three days of golf for members of Orange county chambers of commerce have been arranged by the Huntington Beach organization for September 13, 20 and 27, it was learned today.

The play will take place at the Santa Ana Country club and will be open for any and all members in Orange county for a prize list totaling $90. There will be grand prizes for those who complete 54 holes of golf and prizes for those who find time to play only 18 or 36 holes.

Entries are made by communicating with the home city chamber secretary who will in turn communicate with L. C. Denslow, local secretary. There will be no entry fee, it was stated. Names and addresses are all that is necessary for entering, it is said.

Prizes in the order in which they will be awarded are listed as follows: Loving cup donated by three Huntington Beach banks for the full 54 holes; $15 golf club given by the chamber of commerce for second prize; $15 golf bag presented by the "Tango," local concession, for low net in the first 18 holes; $9 pair of knickers for low gross in the first 18 holes, presented by the management of the "plunge"; golf shoes for low net in the second set of 18 holes, presented by B. T. Mollica; half dozen balls for low gross in the same series of 18 holes, presented by Warner's hardware; half dozen balls presented for low net in the second series of 18 holes by Prescott's hardware; a cap, presented for low gross by McElfresh Men's Furnishings; an $8.50 golf sweater presented for low net in the third series of 18 holes by Jack Robertson; a pair of hose for low gross in the same series by Marker and Thornton.

The committee on the tournament includes L. C. Denslow, J. K. McDonald, C. P. Patton, Elson Conrad and Dale Peters.

National Tennis Doubles Play To Be Opened Today

CHESTNUT HILLS, Mass., Aug. 30.—Sixteen matches in the first round of the national doubles tournament were to be played today. A tardy sun forced postponement of the play which should have begun yesterday.

Tilden, Johnston, Williams, Hunter and Borotra are among the entrants.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon will advance today without playing their first round opponents, Ben Gorchakoff and Norman Craig, who withdrew from the tournament without notice and returned to California.

College Players In Major Leagues

College ball players are assuming more and more importance in the major leagues, and the minors also, every day. You need only glance over the roster of any club in the major organization to realize that.

Not a day passes by but what the headlines call of Lou Gehrig of Columbia, Ted Lyons of Bayler, Frankie Frisch of Fordham, the Sewells of Alabama, Sisler of Michigan, or some other former collegian.

The list of collegians in the majors is really a long one. Every club has at least one such player, and some have several, either playing regularly or out in the minors under option. And no major league manager misses a chance to send his scouts out to watch the various campus stars these days.

Branch Rickey is generally given credit for this boom in college players of late years, but the two New York, Washington and Cleveland clubs are also due some credit for the influx of collegians in the majors. The White Sox and Athletics are not far behind in the race.

You'd Be SURPRISED!

—BY BILLY EVANS

One of the records that Walter Johnson prizes most and is probably the least mentioned in the many feats credited to him, is his consecutive shutout record. During the season of 1913 he pitched 56 consecutive innings without being scored on.

Three remarkable features are connected with Johnson's extraordinary feat of pitching for one month's time without allowing the opposition to tally a run off his delivery.

First, he started his record-breaking performance in the opening game of the season. Second, on three occasions he was sent in as relief pitcher and each time held the rival team in check. Third, in compiling the record, he appeared four times against the Boston Red Sox, world champions of the preceding year, and once against the Athletics, world champions of 1913.

On April 10, 1913, the opening game of the season, New York made a run off Johnson's delivery in the first inning but was blanked the rest of the game. Then for one month, or until May 11, none of the opposition crossed the plate, St. Louis finally breaking the long run of superb pitching.

"It was terrific until I had passed the 46th inning, which was the high water mark set by Jack Coombs," says Walter. "After I passed it, I just breezed along but was satisfied when it was all over."

VETERAN COACH TELLS ABOUT PROGRESS IN COLLEGE SPORT, FIVE COACHES NEEDED NOW

Showing that athletics in the Santa Ana junior college have undergone a remarkable development during the last two years, Walter L. Scott, physical director of the Santa Ana schools, today recalled the time when he was the only coach on the college staff. Contrasting that situation, which prevailed only two years ago, Scott pointed out the fact that the coaching staff of the college includes five men for the coming year. Support from both the past and present board of education, said Scott, have made this improvement possible.

With a nucleus formed last year around which this season's teams will be built, the foundation for winning aggregations in every line of sport, has been laid and the results of several years of training are expected to be evident this season.

Football, basketball and track are said to be in particularly good condition for the coming season. In addition to the regular sports, an innovation in physical training is planned for the college this term, said Scott. Heretofore the college men were able to sign up only for a general course in gym work if they were not out for some sport. Realizing the need for some type of specialization, Scott is working out a plan whereby intensive training will be available in several lines of sport as well as gym classes.

After returning from his vacation at Lake Arrowhead, Scott commented on the fact that some people have the time of their lives while in the mountains or at the beach, while others are forced to spend their time doing little or nothing. The latter group, he asserted, suffer from the fact that they have not learned how to play some game well. Golf, tennis, swimming, baseball, are all open for those who know how to enjoy them.

Believing that the college should offer training in such games, which will enable its graduates to get so much more out of life, Scott is initiating the special gym and games classes. In addition, the apparatus work is expected to give the college boys a chance for testing their physical resources so that they will know their possibilities and defects and have an opportunity to develop while in school.

Clyde Cook, coach at Tustin last year and Bill Cook, of U. S. C., will augment the coaching staff this year, while Scott, G. A. Oliver, and William Foote will continue their connection with the college. The addition of the two Cooks is expected to make the staff especially well fitted to carry out its program for this season.

TO ENTER COLLEGE

Eugene Homans, who was among the leaders in qualifying this year at Minikahda, will be a college freshman next fall.

Three Swimmers Fail To Conquer English Channel

BULLETIN

BOULOGNE, France, Aug. 30.—Two men and a woman who attempted to swim the English channel today returned defeated this afternoon.

Ivy Hawke, an English girl, who started from Cape Gris Nez at 5:25 a. m., returned here at 3:50 p. m.

Rene Doria, a Swiss and Dr. Schiff, a German who started within half an hour after Miss Hawke, returned at 2:30 and 3:30 p. m. respectively.

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Chance of the English channel being conquered today by one or more of the four swimmers who were en route from Cape Gris Nez, France, seemed afar.

At 8:20 a. m. Rene Doria, a Swiss, was in good position and going well.

Ivy Hawke, an English girl, seemed to be in slight difficulty. Dr. Schiff, a 65 year old German, was swimming at a leisurely pace. Miss Mona McLellan, of London, was last reported about half way across at 2 a. m. but was believed still to be in the water this morning.

BAKER WINS TOUGH FIGHT FROM ADAMS

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—Sergeant Sammy Baker, Mitchell Field, Long Island, non-com, today is further established as a welterweight challenger by virtue of a just, but unpopular decision last night at Wrigley Field over Johnny Adams, San Bernardino's idol in the same division.

Adams, quoted in several sectors as a one-to-three prospect against the soldier slugger, made it a fight all the way, and in the closing rounds stood up under a withering barrage.

Baker contented himself early in the going with countering, but as the bout progressed, launched a body attack and tortuous fighting that had Adams in a bad way.

Willie Ritchie, former world's lightweight champion, displayed ring generalship and a hard punching right hand that won him the decision over Dick Hoppe, of Glendale, despite a pair of ageing legs that appeared in danger of buckling on several occasions.

Hoppe was warned four times for low blows by the referee, and the fan chorus of "boos" contended that he was guilty of as many more.

Billy Atkinson's stamina and head attack in the closing rounds gave him the decision over Jimmy Laventhal in the special event.

Leo Claro defeated Clyde Davis in the feature preliminary.

CATALINA SWIM DELAYED

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 30.—Wilbur Goldworthy, 19-year-old San Pedro youth, was last night forced to abandon plans to start on his Catalina channel swim, because of failure of his pilot boat to put in appearance. He declared today that the swim would be attempted at a later date.

HELEN WILLS, BETTY NUTHALL TO PLAY TODAY

BY HENRY L. FARRELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—If Tex Rickard had designed the final round of the American Women's Tennis Championship tournament as he sometimes does boxing matches, he could have done no better than have the natural eliminations in the tournament.

Today at Forest Hills the same quality will be present when Miss Helen Wills, of Berkeley, Calif., meets a little British girl for the tennis title.

The contest between "Our Helen" and "Their Betty"—Miss Betty Nuthall, of England—will not only have an element of interest which any match of tournament participants would have lacked, but because of Miss Wills' apparent certainty of victory, the international appeal is almost a "life saver" in sustaining interest.

Miss Nuthall today has all the best wishes of that element of polite American sportsmanship which always is willing to give the other fellow a break but when the betting started "Our Helen" was almost a three to one favorite to win.

Tammany Young, that famous Broadway actor and gate crasher, didn't dignify the tennis association with his presence during the semi final rounds when little Betty was beating the rich Mrs. Chapin and while "Our Helen" was defeating "Helen the Second," of Berkeley.

But the spirit of Tammany Young was present and that spirit whispered—"That little Nuthall plays tennis like Nick the Greek shoots craps."

Nick the Greek will lay you five or six grand on the flip of a card or the turn of a cube and little Miss Nuthall will take similar characters on the tennis court.

From what has been said of her in this tournament, "Little Nuthall" hasn't a defense stroke. With every stroke she takes the bravado and the impetuosity of youth and shoots for the corners and the lines where the miscalculations of a fraction of an inch mean victory or defeat. But that "Little Nuthall" took all the chances and fate worked with her all through the tournament.

The experts of the tennis association, sitting near the press box, said later today—"Miss Nuthall got all the breaks." But getting away again from the polite sports, there are the words of philosophers like John McGraw and other professionals—"The winner makes the breaks."

With all the "kick" that a "hard boiled" follower of sports can get out of tennis, the conviction remains that "Little Nuthall" cannot beat "Our Helen" today.

Pasadena Girls Train For Meet

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 30.—Girl athletes of Pasadena Athletic and Country club are conditioning here today to defend the championship they have held for two years in the track and field meet to be held at Eureka, Sept. 3.

Prominent athletes from all over the United States are entered in competition, with chief interest centering in Lillian Copeland, Pasadena field event star, Helen Filkey, of Chicago and Elita Cartwright, of Eureka.

ALABAMA LINE STRONG

From the south comes news that Alabama will have a tackle-to-tackle line stronger than the one she boasted of last year. Ends are needed, and so are backs. Wallace Wade seems always to have an end problem, and his back field problem seems to be more troublesome than ever this year. The Crimson Tide should do well; hardly as well, however, as during the past two years.

BANKERS BEAT LUMBERMEN IN TOUGH TUSSLE

Only Four Games Remain In City League Race, Grocers are Leading

Santa Ana baseball fans have a treat in store for them tonight when the Platt Silvertown team meets the league leading F. C. Blauer Grocers in one of the final games of the city league pennant race. The city league schedule is to be wound up this week.

Last night the First National bankers toppled the Santa Ana Lumber company over in a close contest, 3 to 2. The money handlers found Jensen for eight safe bingles, Hitt was working good for the bankers and allowed the lumbermen only four hits and they were well scattered.

The Lumber company men took the lead in the third inning when Harrison socked out a three bagger and came home on fly to the outfield. The bankers came back in the fourth. Finster, first up hit. Hitt was safe on first on a fielder's choice. Mitchell was out on a sacrifice hit and Green next man up singled scoring two runs.

Current brought across the winning run in the seventh inning after making a three bagger. He was brought in by Burns' single. The game last night did not materially change the standings of any of the teams.

Tonight's fracas, one of the four remaining games on the city league schedule should be a hot one. The Silvertown boys are all set to take the measure of the league leading grocers and the Blauer boys are determined to keep their place. The Platt boys are now in third place and can hardly hope to annex the pennant. They can, however, put the Blauers in a dangerous position by defeating them tonight.

The Tiernan Typewriter team, which is close on the heels of the grocers will meet the Santa Ana Lumber company tomorrow night. If the Silvertown boys beat the grocers tonight and stranger things have happened, and if the Tiernans win from the Lumber company, which seems probable, things will be tied up between the two teams. Each will have 10 wins and three losses.

If the Blauers win tonight, the Tiernans still have a chance to tie things up by winning from the Lumber company and then beating the league leaders in the final game of the season, Friday night.

The Chandler Furniture company team mixes with the First National bank boys Thursday night.

Friday night the city league will close, unless it ends in a tie, with a game between the Tiernan Typewriter company and the F. C. Blauer grocers.

EVENING SALUTATION

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindnesses and small obligations, given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart, and secure comfort.

—Sir Humphry Davy.

IN THE INTERESTS OF SAVING FORESTS

People used to say that corporations had no souls. That idea has passed, for corporations have gone far toward humanizing themselves. Many of the big corporations not only have developed souls, but they have put themselves into the class with the very highest type of good citizenship. They see themselves as holding opportunities for public service not given to ordinary voters of the nation.

In the advertising columns of the Register today we find an advertisement showing something of the soul of a corporation. This ad, inserted by the Richfield Oil Company of California, does not proclaim the virtues of Richfield products. In fact, the name of the company inserting the ad occupies an inconspicuous portion of the ad.

"Published in the interest of saving our forests."

This caption tells the story. "In the Path of a Match," is the theme of the ad, which, beneath a striking picture illustrating the damage that is done in forests by fire, reads as follows:

Charred, blackened stumps—desolate acres of waste—hideous reminder of man's appalling carelessness! All in the path of a match!

Carelessness alone is responsible for more than 70 per cent of all our forest fires. Carelessness that can easily be prevented.

We can stop this needless loss with very little effort if every one of us will do his part.

Never throw away a burning match or cigarette while in the woods; never leave a campfire uncovered. This year let us all do our part to save our forests. Be careful.

In making an appeal such as this—an effective appeal—the Richfield Oil company is contributing to a cause that commands the respect and support of good citizens everywhere. The service rendered for the public is appreciated.

MEASURING THE UNIVERSE

Astronomers have been measuring the universe again, this time more accurately than ever before. Their methods and instruments are considered accurate enough to give their conclusions much authority, even if they are not final. And the results are staggering.

The conception of the universe as a thin disc, with our solar system located somewhere near its center, which has been gaining credence in recent years, is upheld. The milky way, once supposed to consist merely of star-mist, and now known to be made of millions of great suns, is pierced by giant telescopes to find the star on the outer edge of this great disc or wheel, and estimate their distance. That gives the radius of the universe. Multiply that by two, and we have its diameter. It is found that it is a little more than 192 quadrillion miles, which in figures is 192,000,000,000,000.

That is not the end, for beyond is space, dark and immeasurable.

It stirs whatever imagination one has. It is inspiring, or appalling, according to the way you happen to look at it. There is ample provocation for big thoughts and lofty moods. Most of us, however, will pass up such considerations, and keep right on figuring the cost of meals and the mileage we get per gallon and who's going to marry whom and when the next card party will be.

There is something especially suggestive in the remark of one of the astronomers that the shape of this wondrous universe, which has been called a disc, is like a very thin watch. Will it ever run down? And if it does, will we, in the spirit or in some other embodiment, be present to witness the end? Or will we and the whole human race be utterly gone millions of years before that?

No answer is expected. These matters are too high for us—yet perhaps none the less worth thinking about.

BIGGER BOYS GROWING UP

The Journal of the American Medical Association states that there has been an increase in the stature of American boys during the last 50 years. More than 100,000 boys, of American-born parents, attending unselected schools, have been measured and their stature compared with that of a nearly similar group measured 50 years ago.

Horace M. Gray, M. D., writing in the Journal, gives several factors as contributing to this development. They are the decline of child labor, more intelligent nutrition, improvement in clothing styles, more exercise and recreation, and medical and social progress.

It seems quite reasonable and even certain that these things have contributed to the healthy growth of American boyhood. Even if an individual cannot increase his own stature merely by taking thought, it is obvious that men and women, by acting upon sound thinking, can do a lot toward increasing the stature, the health, usefulness and happiness of the boys and girls now coming up to maturity and the unborn youngsters who will thus be given a better chance in life than most of their predecessors.

OLD AGE AND VIEWPOINT

Mme. Schumann-Heink, returned to America and frankly admitting her 66 years, shows herself as wise as she is musical. She will soon start on another concert tour lasting seven or eight months and calling for more than 70 arduous engagements. "I am still the old war horse champing at the bit," she says. "I'll be the war horse to the end. Somehow I cannot be old—I do not believe that I shall ever be old. Age is something of the mind, and my mind is young. I feel as young as Lindbergh."

Yes, when people grow old it is in their minds more than their bodies. The slant of mind is the thing that tells. You know an old person when, whatever his age, he looks backward rather than forward, and you recognize a young person when he looks forward regardless of years. The middle-aged man or woman whose thoughts are all of the past is dead already. The octogenarian busily planning for the future, or happily contemplating other people's plans for the future, has no death in him.

THE DAHLIA SHOW

The stage is set for another successful dahlia show at Buena Park under the auspices of the Buena Park Woman's club. This show, opening Friday of this week, is to be the largest of the several annual dahlia shows given at Buena Park.

The popularity of the dahlia has grown steadily in Orange county. The fact that it thrives here is reason enough for its increasing popularity. This year the blooms in all the dahlia gardens are exceptionally large. It has been an excellent growing season.

Those in charge of the exhibition state that they are expecting a 50 per cent increase in the number of entries, this year over last. Competition for awards will be keener than ever before, and a victory therefore more of a distinction.

Some folks can't see why so much fuss should have been made about the announcement of a radio station that it was going to broadcast the ravings of an insane asylum, considering the kind of programs that are being put on the air all the time.

Reading and Habits

Oakland Tribune

A high school teacher making a point in favor of the right sort of reading for boys and girls remarks upon the readiness with which young readers receive suggestions from the heroes and villains of fiction. A student who read "The Conquest of Canaan" was inspired to master the art of lifting his eyebrows. One who read "The Crossing" learned to wiggle his nostrils when angry.

The correct course of reading, outlined perhaps by an expert in physical culture, might result in a student subtly induced to go through the catalogue of the daily dozen, with additional exercises for eyebrows, ears and scalp. When one admires a hero to the extent that he is willing to wiggle nostrils or lift eyebrows in emulation there is a bare chance some of the admired one's virtues will leave an impression and there will be imitative impulses in the mental reactions. In many of the best books there are despicable characters and in books which are the veriest trash one may often find high emphasis upon the virtues of the handsome hero. It is the bulk in good books which means they cannot be downed and if temporary tricks and contortions follow a reading, no harm is done.

It is only when one considers the effects if students were to lay aside the good old books and turn assiduously to the popular short stories he finds occasion for alarm. A generation of young persons forever dropping their eyes, shooting their cuffs and hissing their yesses, would be formidable and disconcerting.

A Disease Banished

Fresno Republican

There are so many things of which men and women can not be proud, so let's recall as frequently as we can the things in which we can take pride. Let's jot down, for instance, the advance that has been made in the practical curtailment of disease.

Not alone that people have been cured. What difference does it make, after a century, whether one has been cured of disease, or has died of it?

The fine thing about the treatment of disease is that the spread has been stopped, and the transmission from one generation to another.

The showing of the International Health Board of the Rockefeller Foundation that the hookworm disease, for instance, has been virtually wiped out in the United States, and has been circumscribed and almost conquered "the world over, is a credit to mankind. Hookworm, among millions of people, amounted to degeneracy. Individual cases of hookworm were, it was found, easily to be cured. But these cures did not save others from the disease. Six or seven millions of persons have been treated in the last 10 to 15 years. That was fine work. But the really fine thing has been that communities have been cleansed, and whole peoples have been trained in the means of preventing themselves and their children and their grandchildren from contracting it. Not until there shall be an utter breakdown in the morale of the United States will there ever again be a hookworm scourge.

BRAIN CONCUSSION CALLS FOR EXAMINATION
When a human being is hit on the head, if the blow is not too hard, he usually recovers. Perhaps a week or so later he will begin to develop peculiar symptoms which may be the result of actual damage to the brain, or which may be purely a mental disturbance.

Occasionally the blow results in a wound of the scalp, but not always. In a few instances there may be an actual cracking of the bones of the skull, but even this may not be associated with serious symptoms.

Recently 100 cases of persons who had been hit on the head were studied. Some of them had fallen while at work, some had been knocked down by automobiles, and a few struck with weapons.

If the brain is injured, there are invariably symptoms of importance, sometimes due to bleeding into the brain, sometimes to mild inflammation.

In every case a person who has received a severe blow on the head and who suffers with any secondary symptoms such as dizziness, ringing in the ears, disturbance of vision, headache, drowsiness, pain in the eye, inability to sleep, convulsions or, apparently, should have a most careful examination by a competent specialist in diseases of the nervous system.

Sometimes the symptoms of severe infections of the nervous system, particularly of the brain, resemble those resulting from a blow on the skull.

It is safe to say that in every case some disturbance results from a severe blow on the head. Frequently the patient recovers promptly without any serious symptoms later, but in most instances there may be sufficient damage to the brain to merit attention.

A great many people receive blows on the head and apparently recover completely. Men who are knocked out in football games or in a prize fight will, after a short time, recover consciousness and apparently have no further disturbances.

It is safe to say, however, that headache, dizziness, irritability, fatigue, and tendency to disturbance of sleep after a severe blow on the head is a sign of actual damage to the brain and the person must be treated accordingly.

Looking Over the Prospects for 1928

"Others"

Contributed to the Register by J. Albert Dennis.

In these busy, hustling days incidents are happening now and again that in our hurry we all forget to take notice of. I am drawing attention to three that are singularly worthy of mention. In Los Angeles at the present time there is a Russian lady songstress assisting at revival meetings who once got five thousand dollars for performing at a single concert, but who today is giving her services absolutely free—for the salvation of souls and the glory of God! The singing of one song, specially composed, has resulted in thousands of conversions.

In San Francisco, one of the leading divines has given up his charge to go out into the world to preach evangelism in "open air" pulpits without money and without price, simply depending upon free will offerings of the people.

That's fine, you'll say. But we do not need to go far afield from Santa Ana to hear tell of things that make us all proud that we live in days like these and in such a city as ours. I was forcibly reminded of this as I read the Register last evening, particularly the welcome extended by E. T. Mater to his brother druggist, Fred Parsons, now located on the opposite corner. Here was a business man paying out good American money, using his ad space to extend the glad hand of welcome and good will, and to boost a competitor. Such an incident is without parallel, worthy of more than a passing notice and ought not to be forgotten. It simply goes to show that brotherhood is a vital, living principle in the business arena in Santa Ana, and that the Golden Rule, handed down to us by the Great Teacher, far transcends dollars and cents.

Worth While Verse

WINGS

I cannot learn, however much I try,
The dull futility of things—
That we are dust, that it is always folly
To manufacture wings.

"Her head is in the clouds," they say, and cluck
Their tongues, loving to repeat
How I have strayed, blind in my rash dreaming,
From their narrow street.

But I, once flying higher than the clouds,
Saw midges crawling on the plain.
Let them be wise. I, who was made for folly,
Shall try my wings again.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was up on the deck ware the life boats are watching 2 sailors painting the railings, being 2 French sailors with long mustaches, and some kid came up and started to watch them too.

Being a French kid with a round French hat with a thing on top, and we looked at each other a while and I said, Polly voo Inglish? and he shook his head no, saying, Polly voo fransay?

Meaning did I speak French, and I shook my head no, and we kept on looking at each other as if we each thawt the other was the dumbest kid we ever saw. Proving if other people don't know what you know it seems to make them much dumber than what you are for not knowing what they know, and pritty soon I took my tennis ball out of my pocket and started to bounce it, and I looked around at the French kid to see how jellish he was looking, and heer wat was he doing sticking his tung out at me, and I stuck mine out at him even ferther and kepp on bouncing my tennis ball, and the next time I looked at him he was making a farsee French face at me, and I made a fearse one back and he ran up and grabbed my tennis ball and threw it way up the deck.

Being a invitation to fite, and I grabbed hold of him and we started to ressie and push and grab each others hats and throw them away, and he necked the back of my head agensst a iron wall and I gave him a farsee kick in the shins to show him whose hed he was nocking, and he stopped to rub his shin and I stopped to rub the back of my hed, neither of us feeling like fighting any more on the account of herting too much, and he took a French puzzle out of his pocket, being a round thing with 3 little imitation mice in it and a hole to make them go through if you could, and he let me try to work it and I got my ball and we had a catch and then we went in the jinnazium and had a lot of fun.

Proving it takes trubble and pane to make people friendly.

THE CITY AND CHARITY

Charity is going out of fashion. So are paupers.

It isn't that there are no poor, it isn't that our amazing prosperity has reached all of us Americans, it isn't that the more fortunate have hardened their hearts; it is rather that a sense of community responsibility for the handicapped and maladjusted members of society is replacing an older notion of succor through alms of the particular victim of poverty.

As a matter of fact, Americans give more generously today than any people ever gave, and a greater effort to help the unfortunate is being made in our American cities today than ever before was witnessed in history.

But nevertheless the word "charity" and much that it once represented is going out of fashion, and with it the word "pauper." Wrapped up in this change of fashion is a trend that is changing the very nature and form of our municipal governments, because it is forcing the local governmental machinery to consider more and more the human elements.

Not that it is new for communities to face the problems of the results of poverty. Ancient Egyptian cities have recorded their struggles with the problem. Roman writers tell us of how the Imperial City tried again and again to be charitable to the poor without making paupers of them, and in vain for at length all Rome was pauperized by a government that gave an indolent people the bread and circuses upon which they lived.

The "poor house" came to America with the first settlers, and we called it that, rather than "almshouse," and we did not change to "workhouse" when England tried, unsuccessfully, to make work a prerequisite of public support.

"Charity," for all of its beautiful meaning, began to have a hateful sound to those who felt that they were victims of misfortune, and many of them starved rather than accept it when it carried with it the stigma of the bitter word "pauper." Others, not so sensitive, imposed upon the machinery of charities, and thereby lived without working. Thus, the gifts of the generous went to those that did not need them, and the needy failed to receive.

Whereupon we invented machinery to sort out the "deserving poor." At the first we thought "deserving" meant those who were willing to work, or those whose poverty could not be directly traced to any condition of living of which we disapproved.

We left the "poor houses" to be managed by the political machinery, and set up private agencies to do this work of charities, calling, for the time being, less and less frequently upon the public purse for "outdoor" relief. It would take far too long to follow the interesting history of these developments, but they are illustrated by a change in words.

About 60 years ago in several states there were set up state-wide organizations interested in poor houses and prisons and they called themselves "Conferences on Charities and Corrections." Fifty-four years ago the first national conference on charities and corrections was held.

Two weeks ago the fifty-fourth annual meeting of that organization was held in Des Moines, but the name had been changed, as it has been in practically all of the 48 states, to the Conference of Social Work.

The 5000 persons who traveled to Des Moines to that meeting, interested in hundreds of varied phases of the human phase of community organization, called themselves "social workers," whether they represented a community chest or a state prison, whether they were playground supervisors or public health nurses, whether they were probation officers or policemen, or anyone of a hundred different sorts of social workers.

An important section was that of those social workers who devote themselves to what they call "family case" work—those who serve the organization known as Associated Charities, now rapidly changing their titles to "Family Welfare Societies" or something of that kind.

The word "charity" tends to disappear, but not the chief thing it once represented. That grows, and as it grows it becomes more important, more influential.

Marching along with this changing aspect of "charity" from the relation of a generous and fortunate alms-giver to an unfortunate pauper to the relation of the whole community to all its handicapped and maladjusted members, has been a similar change of attitude toward the delinquent and the criminal.

While the attitude toward the abnormal persons in the community has been changing, the municipal consciousness, first through the public schools and then through the agencies for the care of public health, came to recognize the effect of local government on all the people of the community. And now, as the convention in Des Moines plainly indicated, the private agency is more and more giving away to what is a comparatively new thing in local government—the Department of Public Welfare.

That this new development means one thing in one city and quite another elsewhere in no way lessens the importance of the development. It means a greater emphasis on the human phase of local government, and, I believe, a closer partnership of the people with their governmental machinery that will make for less corruption and for more efficiency.

Measles

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

TO the normal child, staying in bed is most irksome. While he's really sick things are different; he's quite willing to lie down, but the minute he's even halfway well, he wants to be up and playing. So it doesn't seem quite reasonable to me for grown-ups to just expect a child to convalesce happily with nothing particularly interesting to do. There are always cut-outs, crayons, stencils, paper dolls, a paste pot, scrap books, a ball on a rubber, books—it's a little trouble and a muss, of course, but after all, what has a parent more important to do than make a child well and happy?

ALL night a light burned in the hall.
Each day the doctor came to call.
And I couldn't look outdoors at all,
When I had measles.

But Mother read to me for hours
And Nanna brought the coolest flowers.
All sweet and wet like April showers,
When I had measles.

BUT when the hot had gone away
They propped me up in bed to play.
And I had fun the live-long day,
When I had measles.

I had my food upon a tray
And Mother'd bring it in and say,
"We're on a dining car, we'll play,"
When I had measles.

And all the children sent me things—
A popcorn ball, a top that spins,
A whistle, and a bell that rings,
When I had measles.

MY Daddy got the carrom board
For playing marbles, and my word!
Such fun we had, you never heard,
When I had measles.

But when the Dusky Man brought night
Then Mother'd tuck me in, just right,
And if I woke, she'd hold me tight,
When I had measles.
